PRESSMAN IS BEING SOUGHT ON BAD PAPER

Using of Worthless Checks
Charged Against Missing
Man—Epidemic Here

Local police are searching for Brooks, a pressman who formerly worked for Paul Johnson at his printing shop on W. Main.

Brooks is wanted on a charge of passing a bad check on Mrs. Bowsher, who has a rooming house on W. Main-st. The check was $10 and was signed by the name of Paul Johnson, who police he did not sign the check.

Wednesday night Brooks cashed a check at Fissell's cigar store for $10 when Johnson was with him. Thursday night he attempted to pass a similar check for $33. Fissell refused it.

He then passed the check on Mrs. Bowsher and made his getaway, police say.

This is the fifth bad check that has been passed in this city in the past week, according to police. Last Saturday three boys were arrested and bound over to grand jury for passing bad checks on a number of local merchants.

Earlier in the week police were heard someone was passing bad checks, using the name of C. M. Leist. Mr. Leist claims he did not use the checks. The last report was of Johnson's.

CAL TEACHERS GO TO COLUMBUS

Annual School Convention
Takes Capacity of Capital Buildings.

One of the teachers and superintendents of the Circleville public schools went to Columbus Friday to present at the Central Ohio Teachers' association convention. Several downtown churches, the Y. M. C. A., Chamber of Commerce, Carnegie Library, Memorial hall and the Columbus auditorium were called into service to accommodate the 10,000 teachers. M. C. Warren, of Circleville, a member of the executive committee of the association, among those from Circleville, caused the great number of annual meetings scheduled simultaneously, teachers were required to select their own programs. General sessions opened at 10 a. m. in Memorial hall and the auditorium. The convention closed at noon Saturday. That guests may attend the Ohio State football game, Columbus schools opened Friday at 8:30 a. m., to give visitors opportunity to witness classwork and closed at 10 a. m. the day.

At the general sessions Dr. W. W. Charters of the national research department, State university, and Prof. Lore Sharp, University of Ohio, in Columbus auditorium, Dr. Rolio W. Brown, Harvard university, and Dr. Ernest Thompson, naturalist and author Greenwich, Conn., in Memorial hall.

General sessions were held in buildings at 7:30 p. m. Friday and 9 a. m. Saturday.

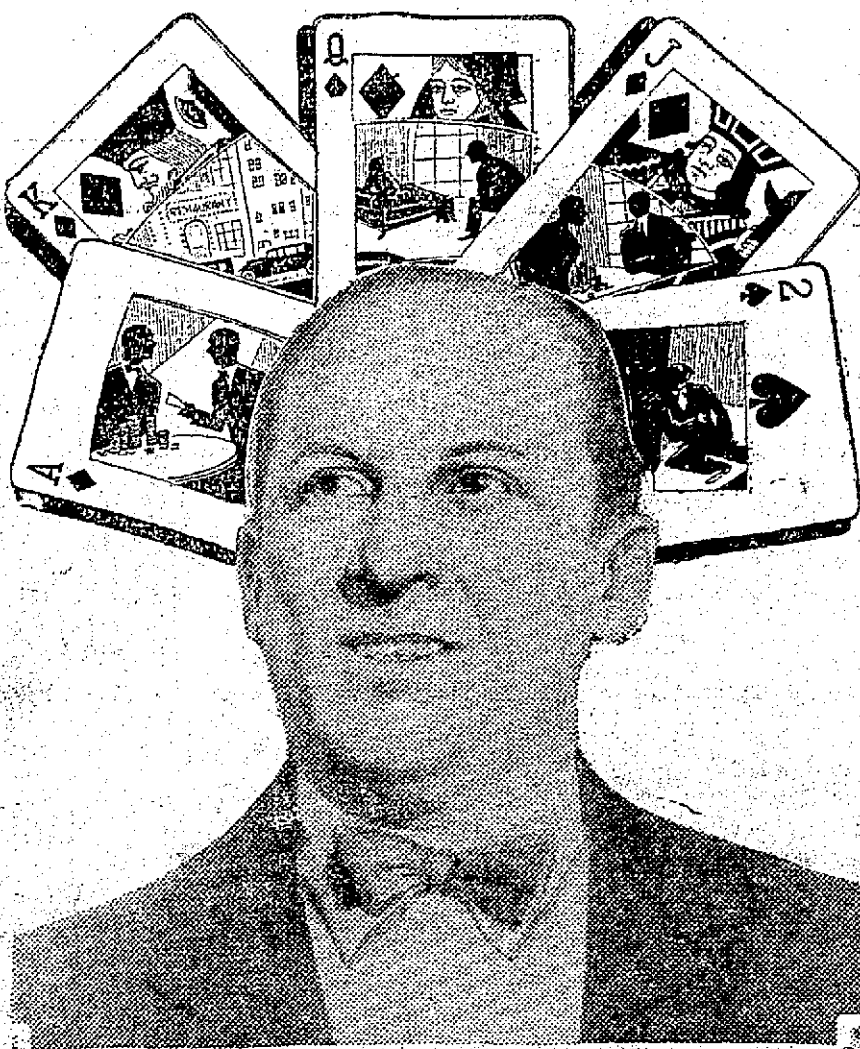

ED FOR OWNING GAMBLING DEVICE

P. Leist, of Stoutsville pleaded guilty to owning a gambling device in Justice Boersler's court today morning in Lancaster. He was fined $50 and costs and placed under $500 bond for appearance. Leist is the proprietor of a butcher shop and grocery in Stoutsville. He was arrested by Sheriff.

ELECTION BOARD IS TABULATING VOTE

The county board of elections have not yet completed the official count of the ballots of Pickaway-co, but it is thought that this official count will not change results that has already been made public. There was no race so close that the few votes that will change will in any way endanger any of the announced successful candidates.

The official count will probably be completed Friday afternoon, late, giving the name of each candidate and the vote received starting with the national ticket on down through the judicial, district, state and county and the bond issues and tax levies.

NUTRITION SUBJECT

Leaders of the nutrition project met at the Pickaway-co farm bureau home at 1 p. m. Friday with Miss Lelia Ogle, nutrition expert, to outline plans for a series of meetings in which the leaders will convey the information they learn to other farmwives. The meetings concern the preparation of meat and meat-like dishes. These meetings are being conducted through the Pickaway-co farm bureau.

HOOVER GAINS GREATER POLL FOR ELECTION

Republican Has 6,000,000
Lead Over Gov. Smith In Popular Vote.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The scope of Herbert Hoover's victory in the race for president of the United States continued to grow today.

Latest United Press figures showed Hoover had swept the country by more than 6,000,000 votes in the popular balloting and that his votes in the electoral college stood at 444 as compared with 87 for Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate.

One by one the outstanding precincts reported a greater gain for the commerce secretary. As a few of the mid-western states and the eastern states came in, it was shown that the Hoover landslide had reached greater proportions than even had been considered as the first ballots came in Tuesday night.

Even North Carolina, one of the states of the solid south, aided in piling up the great popular vote.

The popular vote as shown by the most recent United Press tabulations:

Electoral votes: Hoover 444, Smith 87.
States carried: Hoover 40, Smith 3.

Popular vote: Hoover 20,384,935; Smith 14,224,195; total 34,609,131; Hoover's plurality, 6,160,738.

Romping Children Will Be Hoover's Gift to Atmosphere of White House

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 2.—Children will romp about the White House in the next administration for the first time in 20 years.

Herbert Hoover the third is just a year old now, to be true, but within two or three years he will have reached the age that delights in riding a velocipede on such places as the east room's sherry floor, which have not been marred since young Quentin Roosevelt, who now occupies a soldier's grave in France, urged his pony to try the slippery footing.

Herbert's sister, flaxen-haired, blue-eyed Peggy, already has reached the mischievous age. Knowing her grandfather only as a big, kindly man, and not as president-elect of the United States, she marches into his study here, where he is pondering affairs of state and planning his administration, calmly pushes aside his papers and insists on a romp. And the president-elect sets aside important matters and plays with his two-and-a-half year old granddaughter. He is proud of Old-timers declare that nothing like it has ever been known before in the metropolis.

FIND TORAL, NUN GUILTY

Obregon Slayer: To Give Life
As Penalty—Woman Is
Also Convicted.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—The mad young draughtsman who assassinated General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, must face a firing squad, and a nun of the Roman Catholic church accused of "intellectual" authorship of the plot must spend 20 years in prison.

A jury last night found Jose De Leon Toral guilty of killing the president-elect and he was sentenced to death before the firing squad. The same jury found Mother Superior Concepcion guilty of being the intellectual author of the crime and sentenced her to 20 years in prison—the most extreme penalty that can be given a woman in Mexico.

Both were prepared for the sentence. Toral, just before the verdict was read, looked out over the small crowd of newspapermen in the court room and said:

"I expect nothing but death but I hope when I am dead that the people will forget their hatred."

He rode away from the presidential office in San Angeles in a motor car, his arm draped around the driver of the car, towards the penitentiary. A smile lighted his rather wan face. Once he sighted a friend. He waved cheerfully.

The nun, riding in a motor car in the rear, was wistful. She looked downward, just as she had when the verdict was returned, and paid little attention to the staring eyes of the crowd which lined the streets.

Mrs. B. T. Hedges spent Friday in Chillicothe the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. A. Hearnstein.

FORMER RESIDENT IS DEAD IN EAST

Juliette Elizabeth Lutz, Former Teacher Here, Dies of Pneumonia.

Juliette Elizabeth Lutz, 70, wife of Chester F. Lutz, former residents, of Circleville, died at her home in Absecon, N. J., Thursday after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Lutz before her marriage was Miss Juliette Elizabeth Smith, a valued teacher in the public schools here. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz moved away from Circleville about 15 years ago.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, Hubert Lutz, Columbus, and Mark Lutz, Absecon, N. J., and three daughters, Mrs. Florence McDaniels and Miss Lila Lutz, Columbus and Mrs. Gertrude McDowell, Lakewood.

Mrs. Lutz's body will be brought to Columbus, Friday, and taken to the Egan undertaking parlors where funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. Saturday. Interment will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

SCHOOL IS CLOSED BECAUSE OF FEVER

The Harrison-town grade school at Duvall closed sessions Thursday due to the rapid increase of scarlet fever in that township, according to word learned at the office of Dr. G. W. Heffner, county health commissioner.

It is believed the school will be closed the rest of this week and probably a part of next week.

SEARCH RUINS FOR VICTIMS

Seventeen Perish In Blast
Which Wrecks Plant In Massachusetts

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9.—A twisted mass of cement and steel—the charred ruins of a funeral pyre that blasted, tore and burned to death 17 persons and injured scores—was searched by firemen today for bodies as the city mourned the victims of the worst disaster in its history.

Sudden and terrific, a chemical cellulose explosion yesterday shattered the one and one-half story factory building of the Preble Box company's plant and threw a flame into neighboring tenement houses.

Mrs. Harry Blaney and five children were burned to death when the flame from the explosion enveloped their home. Blaney was reported dying from burns and two other Blaney children were badly burned.

Eleven workmen were killed. Two of them had been either hurled to the street by the force of the explosion or had run off their clothing on fire, screaming for help. They were found dead on the street.

Beside the Blaneys, four men and a woman were in Lynn hospital badly burned, three of them possibly fatally.

The cause of the explosion may never be known—anything from the careless use of a cigarette (a violation of the factory rules) to spontaneous combustion due to the chemicals in use at the plant had been advanced as reasons.

ROTARY GOVERNOR VISITS CLUB HERE

Circleville Rotary club was honored Thursday evening at the Boggis hotel when District Governor "Bob" Hughes, of Dayton, made his official visit. Governor "Bob" congratulated the local club on its activities and commended it highly on the attendance record, the club having an average over 98 per cent for the month of October.

In his talk to the members on "The Worthwhileness of Rotary," he told of the organization's rapid growth, starting 23 years ago in Chicago until today it is international in scope with clubs in 44 nations of the world.

The worthwhileness of Rotary can best be understood by the regular attendance of its members, at weekly meetings, having increased 20 per cent during the past year in the 22nd district he said.

Rotary being found all over the world has had a tendency to draw men and nations closer together with better understanding and has helped materially in achieving international peace, Gov. Hughes declared.

Founded on the principles of "Service Above Self," Rotary with its vocational education and high ethical standards has achieved a high place in the every day business of the nation, and with prospects of a larger growth in the future, than in the past Rotary will become even more worthwhile, he concluded.

THREE FLOWS OF LAVA HIT COUNTRYSIDE

Molten Mass Spreads Death,
Destruction As Slumber-
ing Volcano Awakens

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 9.—The devastating eruption of Mount Etna continued unabated at the source today and millions of damage had been done in the peaceful valleys that lie at the slopes of the mountainside.

The full realization of the wrath of the great crater became known when Prof. Gaetano Ponte, director of the observatory for the volcano, flew over the crater. He watched the three flows of lava spew from their pits and start hurtling down the mountainside.

There is no abatement of the force of the destruction, he reported. The speed at the start sometimes reached 400 metres an hour. Fortunately as the molten lava streaks down the mountainside its power decreases and at some of the bases the speed now is estimated at no more than five kilometers an hour.

COUNTRY DESOLATE
Down in the valley below the ordinarily peaceful mountainside there is the picture of utmost desolation.

Three destructive streams have poured down out of the crater, sweeping all vegetation before them. At times these streams have reached a velocity of 130 kilometers an hour, the natives reported as they fled from their homes in front of the onrushing avalanche of melted rock and ore.

The three streams are expected to join at the sea Saturday and the natives of this hillside country hope that the danger then may stop. Everything will be all right, they say, but the great crater which has stood as a signal of danger to the peaceful valleys for centuries.

FARMERS VICTIMS
Twelve thousand persons are homeless as result of this latest outbreak of the great crater and they are housed in the schools and cement house buildings which have withstood the damaging force of the volcano. Two persons have been killed. A man and his wife, who had lived in the peaceful Agrarian valleys for years, died in each other's arms on the roof of their farm house. They had been signalling for help as the fiery red flow descended and destroyed them and the property they had taken years to build up.

The United Press correspondent reached the front of this new devastation and watched the merciless mass creeping slowly on the richest lands of the district. The valuable groves of lemon and apple trees were destroyed.

The molten flow swept down through the district and as the searing stream struck the trees they were withered. The white hot flames struck up into the trunks, eating away the sap, and before one's very eyes the trees withered.

PEASANTS FLEE
Roads leading from the district were filled with the peasants, leaving their farms—their life work—behind them. They hurried to escape the horrible danger that threatened in a slowly approaching manner. From Mascalci the traffic in every direction was thick. Carts, auto lorries and other vehicles were filled with furniture while thousands of the peasants marched along not knowing where they were going, but all seeking to escape the wrath of the great mountain.

Every direction from Mascalci the peasants departed. The railroad station there, several kilometers distant, was safe but it is in the path of the Avalanche and soon may be destroyed.

The three streams from Mount Etna are visible from Mascalci, pouring down in unabated wrath. A column of smoke rises from the summit and the cinders from the terrible subterranean disturbance fill the air.

The surface of the stream resembles a vast cinder dump with the color slightly dark gray. Underneath this top covering there is a red molten mass which rolls heavily down the mountain side.

The velocity of the stream that is sweeping on to Mascalci now is somewhat slowed up, but it still goes along a wide path at a rate of 15 yards an hour. One of the streams is 30 feet high and is entrenched in the heart of the fertile valley.

B. F. Yates was a Columbus visitor Friday attending to some business affairs.

have not yet completed the official count of the ballots of Pickawayco, but it is thought that this official count will not change results that has already been made public. There was no race so close that the few votes that will change will in any way endanger any of the announced successful candidates.

The official count will probably be completed Friday afternoon late, giving the name of each candidate and the vote received starting with the national ticket on down through the judicial, district, state and county and the bond issues and tax levies.

NUTRITION SUBJECT

Leaders of the nutrition project met at the Pickaway-co farm bureau home at 1 p. m. Friday with Miss Lelia Ogle, nutrition expert, to outline plans for a series of meetings in which the leaders will convey the information they learn to other farmwives. The meetings concern the preparation of meat and meat-like dishes.
These meetings are being conducted through the Pickaway-co farm bureau.

HOOVER GAINS GREATER POLL FOR ELECTION

Republican Has 6,000,000
Lead Over Gov. Smith In Popular Vote.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The scope of Herbert Hoover's victory in the race for president of the United States continued to grow today.

Latest United Press figures showed Hoover had swept the country by more than 6,000,000 votes in the popular balloting and that his votes in the electoral college stood at 444 as compared with 87 for Governor Alfred E.
Smith, the Democratic candidate.

One by one the outstanding precincts reported a greater gain for the commerce secretary. As a few of the mid-western states and the eastern states came in, it was shown that the Hoover landslide had reached greater proportions than even had been considered as the first ballots came in Tuesday night.

Even North Carolina, one of the states of the solid south, aided in piling up the great popular vote.
The popular vote as shown by the most recent United Press tabulations:

Electoral votes: Hoover 444,
Smith 87.
States carried: Hoover 40,
Smith 8.
Popular vote: Hoover 20,384,- 935; Smith 14,224,195; total 34,- 609,131; Hoover's plurality, 6, 160,738.

Romping Children Will Be Hoover's Gift to Atmosphere of White House

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 9.—
Children will romp about the White House in the next administration for the first time in 20 years.

Herbert Hoover the third is just a year old now, to be true, but within two or three years he will have reached the age that delights in riding a velocipede on such places as the east room's shiny floor, which have not been marred since young Quentin Roosevelt, who now occupies a soldier's grave in France, urged his pony to try the slippery footing.

Herbert's sister, flaxen-na-red, blue-eyed Peggy, already has reached the mischievous age.
Knowing her grandfather only as a big, kindly man, and not as president-elect of the United States, she marches into his study here, where he is pondering af-airs of state and planning his administration, calmly pushes aside his papers and insists on a romp.
And the president-elect sets aside important matters and plays with his two-and-a-half year old granddaughter. He is proud of

"On the Sidewalks of New York"

Here is just a part of crowd of 500,000 men, women and children which jammed Times Square almost to suffocation on election night, the photo showing some of the autos which were imprisoned in its midst for more than two hours. Old-timers declare that nothing like it has ever been known before in the metropolis.

FIND TORAL, NUN GUILTY

Obregon Slayer To Give Life
As Penalty—Woman Is
Also Convicted.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 9.—The mad young draughtsman who assassinated General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, must face a firing squad; and a nun of the Roman Catholic church accused of "intellectual authorship" of the plot must spend 20 years in prison.

A jury last night found Jose De Leon Toral guilty of killing the president-elect and he was sentenced to death before the firing squad. The same jury found Mother Superior Concepcion guilty of being the intellectual author of the crime and sentenced her to 20 years in prison—the most extreme penalty that can be given a woman in Mexico.

Both were prepared for the sentence.
Torol, just before the verdict was read, looked out over the small crowd of newspapermen in the court room and said:
"I expect nothing but death but I hope when I am dead that the people will forget their hatred."

He rode away from the presidential office in San Angela in a motor car, his arm draped around the driver of the car, towards the penitentiary. A smile lighted his rather wan face. Once he sighted a friend. He waved cheerfully.

The nun, riding in a motor car in the rear, was wistful. She looked downward, just as she had done when the verdict was returned, and paid little attention to the staring eyes of the crowd which lined the streets.

Mrs. E. T. Hedges spent Friday in Chillicothe the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. A. Hearnstein.

FORMER RESIDENT IS DEAD IN EAST

Juliette Elizabeth Lutz, Former Teacher Here, Dies of Pneumonia.

Juliette Elizabeth Lutz, 70, wife of Chester F. Lutz, former residents, of Circleville, died at her home in Absecon, N. J., Thursday after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Lutz before her marriage was Miss Juliette Elizabeth Smith, a valued teacher in the public schools here. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz moved away from Circleville about 15 years ago.

She is survived by her husband;
two sons, Hubert Lutz, Columbus,
and Mark Lutz, Absecon, N. J., and three daughters, Mrs. Florence
McDaniels and Miss Lila Lutz,
Columbus and Mrs. Gertrude Mc-Dowell, Lakewood.

Mrs. Lutz's body will be brought to Columbus, Friday, and taken to the Egan undertaking parlors where funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. Saturday.
Interment will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

SCHOOL IS CLOSED BECAUSE OF FEVER

The Harrison-twp grade school at Duvall closed sessions Thursday due to the rapid increase of scarlet fever in that township, according to word learned at the office of Dr. G. W. Heffner, county health commissioner.

It is believed the school will be closed the rest of this week and probably a part of next week.

The Ashville and Harrison-twp school at Ashville has not yet been closed but it is rumored it will close if the malady continues to increase.

SEARCH RUINS FOR VICTIMS

Seventeen Perish In Blast
Which Wrecks Plant in Massachusetts

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 9.—A twisted mass of cement and steel—the charred ruins of a funeral pyre that blasted, tore and burned to death 17 persons and injured scores—was searched by firemen
today for bodies as the city
land city mourned the victims of the worst disaster in its history.

Sudden and terrific, a chemical-cellulose explosion yesterday shattered the one and one-half story factory building of the Preble Box company's plant and threw a flame into neighboring tenement houses.
Mrs. Harry Blaney and five children were burned to death when the flame from the explosion enveloped their home. Blaney was reported dying from burns and two other Blaney children were badly burned.

Eleven workmen were killed.
Two of them had been either hurled to the street by the force of the explosion or had run off, their clothing on fire, screaming for help. They were found dead on the street.

Beside the Blaneys, four men and a woman were in Lynn hospital badly burned, three of them possibly fatally.

The cause of the explosion may never be known—anything from the careless use of a cigarette (a violation of the factory rules) to spontaneous combustion due to the chemicals in use at the plant had been advanced as reasons.

ROTARY GOVERNOR VISITS CLUB HERE

Circleville Rotary club was honored Thursday evening at the Boggs hotel when District Governor "Bob" Hughes, of Dayton, made his official visit. Governor
"Bob" congratulated the local club on its activities and commended it highly on the attendance record, the club having an average over 98 per cent for the month of October.

In his talk to the members on
"The Worthwhileness of Rotary,"
he told of the organization's rapid growth, starting 23 years ago in Chicago until today it is international in scope with clubs in 44 nations of the world.

The worthwhileness of Rotary can best be understood by the regular attendance of its members at weekly meetings, having increased 20 per cent during the past year in the 22nd district he said.

Rotary being found all over the world has had a tendency to draw men and nations closer together with better understanding and has helped materially in achieving international peace, Gov. Hughes declared.

Founded on the principles of "Service Above Self," Rotary with its vocational education and high ethical standards has achieved a high place in the every day business of the nation, and with prospects of a larger growth in the future, than in the past. Rotary will become even more worthwhile, he concluded.

THREE FLOWS OF LAVA HIT COUNTRYSIDE

Molten Mass Spreads Death,
Destruction As Slumber-
ing Volcano Awakens

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 9.—The devastating eruption of Mount Etna continued unabated at the source today and millions of damage had been done in the peaceful valleys that lie at the slopes of the mountainside.

The full realization of the wrath of the great crater became known when Prof. Gaetano Ponte, director of the observatory for the val-cano, flew over the crater. He watched the three flows of lava spew from their pits and start hurting down the mountainside.

There is no abatement of the force of the destruction, he reported. The speed at the start sometimes reached 400 metres an hour.
Fortunately as the molten lava streaks down the mountainside its power decreases and at some of the bases the speed now is estimated at no more than five kilometers an hour.

COUNTRY DESOLATE

Down in the valley below the ordinarily peaceful mountain side there is the picture of utmost desolation.

Three destructive streams have poured down out of the crater, sweeping all vegetation before them. At times these streams have reached a velocity of 130 kilometer and hour, the natives reported as they fled from their homes in front of the onrushing avalanche of melted rock and ore.

The three streams are expected to join at the sea Saturday and the natives of this hillside country hope that the danger then may stop. Everything will be all right
today for bodies as the city
land city mourned the victims of the worst disaster in its history.

FARMERS VICTIMS

Twelve thousand persons are homeless as result of this latest outbreak of the great crater and they are housed in the schools and cement house buildings which have withstood the damaging force of the volcano. Two persons have been killed. A man and his wife, who had lived in the peaceful Agrarian valleys for years, died in each other's arms on the roof of their farm house. They had been signalling for help as the fiery red flow descended and destroyed them and the property they had taken years to build up.

The United Press correspondent reached the front of this new devastation and watched the merciless mass creeping slowly on the richest lands of the district. The valuable groves of lemon and apple trees were destroyed.

The molten flow swept down through the district and as the searing stream struck the trees they were withered. The white hot flames struck up into the trunks, eating away the sap, and before one's very eyes the trees withered.

PEASANTS FLEE

Roads leading from the district were filled with the peasants, leaving their farms—their life work—behind them. They hurried to escape the horrible danger that threatened in a slowly approaching manner. From Mascalci the traffic in every direction was thick. Carts, auto lorries and other vehicles were filled with furniture while thousands of the peasants marched along not knowing where they were going, but all seeking to escape the wrath of the great mountain.

Every direction from Mascalci the peasants departed. The railroad station there, several kilometers distant, was safe but it is in the path of the Avalanche and soon may be destroyed.

The three streams from Mount Etna are visible from Mascalci, pouring down in unabated wrath.
A column of smoke rises from the pinnacle and the cinders from the terrible subterranean disturbance fill the air.

The surface of the stream resembles a vast cinder dump with the color slightly dark gray. Underneath this top covering there is a red molten mass which rolls heavily down the mountain side.

The velocity of the stream that is sweeping on to Mascalci now is somewhat slowed up, but it still goes along a wide path at a rate of 15 yards an hour. One of the streams is 30 feet high and is intrenched in the heart of the fertile valley.

REFUSES $300 BID

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.—Leo Hanson, of the Columbus News Company here, has turned down an offer of $300 for a copy of the New York Herald of April 15, 1865—the paper with the story of Abraham Lincoln's assassination. The paper originally sold for three cents.

I DID NOT CARE IF I DIED; FOUND RELIEF IN KONJOLA

Writs and Kidney Trouble, Following Operation For Appendicitis Routed By New Medicine.

MR. C. W. WORTHINGTON.

"My health was in such a bad state that I did not care if I died, after a treatment of Konjola I regained all the joy in living and have glorious health again," said Mr. C. W. Worthington, Deandale (near Steubenville, Ohio).

"Last February I underwent an operation from which I never fully recovered. I was left in a weakened condition and before I gained strength enough to ward off disease, my stomach and kidneys became affected. Then came neuritis. Headaches and back pains caused untold suffering. My limbs were badly swollen and caused such misery that no tongue can describe my agony. It seemed that my suffering was more than I could bear."

"This was my plight when a friend suggested that I try Konjola. Today I am in the best of health. I gained 18 pounds and my friends say I look a different person. I have not one ache or pain and my stomach and kidneys are sound as a dollar. I sleep all night and eat anything I desire. I wish to make it clear that there is not a word of exaggeration in this statement. I hope that everyone who suffers as I did will give this wonderful medicine a trial."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O., at Mykrantz Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in every town throughout this entire section.—Adv.

ATHENS-CO HAS 34 OPEN SHOP MINES

ATHENS, O., Nov. 9.—The 34 open-shop mines of the Hocking and Sunday Creek Valleys now are all in operation with a total working force of approximately 3,000 men. Increases in the number of laborers are reported at practically all mines, establishing a new high mark in the "back to work" movement.

Ninety-four cars, amounting to about 5,640 tons of coal, were checked through the Nelsonville yards in one day. This was believed to be the season's record.

Eight organized mines, including the New Straitsville stripping operation, participated in this tonnage to the extent of 22 cars, or about 1,320 tons.

Eleven open-shop properties in the Hocking Valley produced 72 cars, or 4,320 tons, in one day.

Loadings in the Sunday Creek properties are averaging about 100 cars, or about 6,000 tons, daily.

President Coolidge is to be made a life member of the American Trap Shooters' association. This is due to the president's having broken 24 targets out of 25.

John Coolidge, son of the president, has refused a position in a Minnesota bank. He said he already had a job.

Red Cross Disaster Workers Fight Disease and Hunger in Porto Rico

All that is left of a rural school in Porto Rico

"SEND an additional hospital unit."

"We need food."

"We need nurses and doctors."

Day in and day out these requests pour into the disaster relief headquarters at San Juan, Porto Rico, as the American Red Cross wages its fight against hunger and disease in the hurricane-swept island.

More than 20,000 persons are ill with typhoid fever, influenza and malaria. Nearly 500,000 are homeless and destitute, without food or shelter except that provided by the relief organization. Sugar cane, banana trees, citrus groves, and pineapple plants, their chief source of food and livelihood, are gone. Medical authorities and the public health officials of the little island, known before the hurricane for its exquisite beauty, say there is grave danger of serious epidemics.

These are the conditions which prompted the people of the United States to send their Red Cross to the aid of Porto Rico which, while speaking a different language flies the same flag, has the same institutions, and cherishes the same ideals. Not more than eighteen months ago conditions were reversed, and Porto Rico sent aid to the United States. While not as large or as wealthy, she was one of the first to come to the aid of Mississippi Valley flood sufferers with a substantial contribution of funds.

Like gaunt skeletons of shell torn villages stand more than fifty cities and towns in the central and southern section of the island. Tobacco factories and sugar cane mills are damaged, adding unemployment to the woes of the population.

Working night and day the Red Cross is sending a constant stream of supplies into the interior. Three hundred tons of food, a thousand tents, five thousand blankets, six thousand cots, a ton of medical supplies, are no unusual one day distribution. The United States, even with its Mississippi Valley flood, has never seen a disaster in which a fourth of its population were homeless and destitute and where for weeks they will depend for life on outside aid.

The office of the Red Cross at Washington point out that the people of the United States will be given an opportunity to endorse the disaster relief work in Porto Rico at the time of the annual nationwide Roll Call between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving, when an appeal is to be made for five million Red Cross members.

HORSESHOE PRINT MARKS TOMBSTONE

NEW LEXINGTON, Nov. 9.—If one takes time to visit the graveyard of this community and hunt out the tombstones marking James K. Henry's place of mortal rest, one may find the imprint of a horseshoe on the stone.

It is now corroded through the stone but is still discernible. It is being offered by the good folk hereabouts as Exhibit A for a weird tale about how James K. Henry came to die.

In 1844, when John Tyler was president of these United States, Miss Mary Angle and Miss Rachel Hodge were the belles of "Tatletown," near Somerset, Perry Co. On Jan. 11, of that year, Miss Angle was married to Henry. On Feb. 23, 1845, the young wife died following the birth of a son. Three and a half years later, Henry took a second wife. She was Miss Hodge, the other belle.

Within a week after the second wedding, the good folk say, there appeared a formation on the grave marker of the first Mrs. Henry.

Shortly thereafter, Henry went to his barn and was kicked to death by his horse. The mark on the tombstone had been a horseshoe.

Some of the people of the community claim that at night, the horseshoe has been seen to glow uncannily and that the outlines of two women, apparently quarreling have appeared within its borders.

ANKLE X-RAYED

Ernest Weaver, Clinton-st had an X-Ray taken of his right ankle at the office of Dr. Courtwright, Friday, as it was believed the ankle was fractured. The X-Ray showed no broken bones. Weaver turned his ankle the first week he was working at the gravel crusher near Fox.

NEW JAIL BENCHES

Six new benches have been added to the city prison for the accommodation of the transient trade of hoboes, according to Chief Warner. The frosty nights have brought many into the free hotel, and new benches were needed.

Marble House, the residence given Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, by her first husband, William K. Vanderbilt, and which cost $800,000, is to be sold. Mrs. Belmont now spends most of her time in France.

REFUSES $300 BID

COLUMBUS, Nov. 9.—Leo Schanson, of the Columbus News Company here, has turned down an offer of $300 for a copy of the New York Herald of April 15, 1865—the paper with the story of Abraham Lincoln's assassination. The paper originally sold for three cents.

"I DID NOT CARE IF I DIED;" FOUND RELIEF IN KONJOLA

Neuritis and Kidney Trouble, Following Operation For Appendicitis Routed By New Medicine.

MR. C. W. WORTHINGTON.

"My health was in such a bad state that I did not care if I died, but after a treatment of Konjola I regained all the joy in living and have glorious health again," said Mr. C. W. Worthington, Deandale (near Steubenville, Ohio).

"Last February I underwent an operation from which I never fully recovered. I was left in a weakened condition and before I gained strength enough to ward off disease my stomach and kidneys became affected. Then came neuritis. Headaches and back pains caused untold suffering. My limbs were badly swollen and caused such misery that no tongue can describe my agony. It seemed that my suffering was more than I could bear.

"This was my plight when a friend suggested that I try Konjola. Today I am in the best of health. I gained 18 pounds and my friends say I look a different person. I have not one ache or pain and my stomach and kidneys are sound as a dollar. I sleep all night and eat anything I desire. I wish to make it clear that there is not a word of exaggeration in this statement. I hope that everyone who suffers as I did will give this wonderful medicine a trial."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O., at Mykrantz Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in every town throughout this entire section.—Adv.

ATHENS-CO HAS 34 OPEN SHOP MINES

ATHENS, O., Nov. 9.—The 34 open-shop mines of the Hocking and Sunday Creek Valleys now are all in operation with a total working force of approximately 3,000 men. Increases in the number of laborers are reported at practically all mines, establishing a new high mark in the "back to work" movement.

Ninety-four cars, amounting to about 5,640 tons of coal, were checked through the Nelsonville yards in one day. This was believed to be the season's record.

Eight organized mines, including the New Straitsville stripping operation, participated in this tonnage to the extent of 22 cars, or about 1,320 tons.

Eleven open-shop properties in the Hocking Valley produced 72 cars, or 4,320 tons, in one day.

Loadings in the Sunday Creek properties are averaging about 100 cars, or about 6,000 tons, daily.

President Coolidge is to be made a life member of the American Trap Shooters' association. This is due to the president's having broken 24 targets out of 25.

John Coolidge, son of the president, has refused a position in a Minnesota bank. He said he already had a job.

Red Cross Disaster Workers Fight Disease and Hunger in Porto Rico

All that is left of a rural school in Porto Rico.

"SEND an additional hospital unit."

"We need food."

"We need nurses and doctors."

Day in and day out these requests pour into the disaster relief headquarters at San Juan, Porto Rico, as the American Red Cross wages its fight against hunger and disease in the hurricane swept island.

More than 20,000 persons are ill with typhoid fever, influenza and malaria. Nearly 500,000 are homeless and destitute, without food or shelter except that provided by the relief organization. Sugar cane, banana trees, citrus groves, and pineapple plants, their chief source of food and livelihood, are gone. Medical authorities and the public health officials of the little island, known before the hurricane for its exquisite beauty, say there is grave danger of serious epidemics.

These are the conditions which prompted the people of the United States to send their Red Cross to the aid of Porto Rico which while speaking a different language flies the same flag, has the same institutions, and cherishes the same ideals. Not more than eighteen months ago conditions were reversed, and Porto Rico sent aid to the United States. While not as large or as wealthy, she was one of the first to come to the aid of Mississippi Valley flood sufferers with a substantial contribution of funds.

Like gaunt skeletons of shell torn villages stand more than fifty cities and towns in the central and southern section of the island. Tobacco factories and sugar cane mills are damaged, adding unemployment to the woes of the population.

Working night and day, the Red Cross is sending a constant stream of supplies into the interior. Three hundred tons of food, a thousand tents, five thousand blankets, six thousand cots, a ton of medical supplies are no unusual one day distribution. The United States, even with its Mississippi Valley flood, has never seen a disaster in which a fourth of its population were homeless and destitute and where for weeks they will depend for life on outside aid.

The officials of the Red Cross at Washington point out that the people of the United States will be given an opportunity to endorse the disaster relief work in Porto Rico at the time of the annual nationwide Roll Call between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving, when an appeal is to be made for five million Red Cross members.

HORSESHOE PRINT MARKS TOMBSTONE

NEW LEXINGTON, Nov. 9.—If one takes time to visit the graveyard of this community and hunt out the tombstones marking James K. Henry's place of mortal rest, one may find the imprint of a horseshoe on the stone.

It is now corroded through the stone but is still discernible. It is being offered by the good folk hereabouts as Exhibit A for a weird tale about how James K. Henry came to die.

In 1844, when John Tyler was president of these United States, Miss Mary Angle and Miss Rachel Hodge were the belles of "Tall-town," near Somerset, Perryco. On Jan. 11, of that year, Miss Angle was married to Henry. On Feb. 23, 1845, the young wife died following the birth of a son. Three and a half years later, Henry took a second wife. She was Miss Hodge, the other belle.

Within a week after the second wedding, the good folk say, there appeared a formation on the grave marker of the first Mrs. Henry.

Shortly thereafter, Henry went to his barn and was kicked to death by his horse. The mark on the tombstone had been a horseshoe.

Some of the people of the community claim that at night, the horseshoe has been seen to glow unaccountably and that the outlines of two women, apparently quarreling have appeared within its borders.

ANKLE X-RAYED

Ernest Weaver, Clinton-st. had an X-Ray taken of his right ankle at the office of Dr. Courtwright, Friday, as it was believed the ankle was fractured. The X-Ray showed no broken bones. Weaver turned his ankle the first week he was working at the gravel crusher near Fox.

NEW JAIL BENCHES

Six new benches have been added to the city prison for the accommodation of the transient trade of hoboes, according to Chief Warner. The frosty nights have brought many into the free hotel, and new benches were needed.

Marble House, the residence given Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, by her first husband, William K. Vanderbilt, and which cost $8,000,000, is to be sold. Mrs. Belmont now spends most of her time in France.

Mrs. John Riley, of Chillicothe, returned to her home after a short visit with her mother, Mrs. Robert Howard, of Chillicothe.

FARMING FAMILY IS PARTNERSHIP HERE

Sons or Sons-in-Law Make Up 96 Per Cent of Tenants of Owners.

Farming is rather more a family partnership affair in Ohio than in other states, according to the number of tenants on Ohio farms who are sons or sons-in-law of the owners of the farms. A population survey carried on in 1926, 1927 and 1928 by P. G. Beck, of the rural economics department of the Ohio State university, showed 43 per cent of the tenants on Ohio farms are related to their landlords, and 96 per cent of the relatives are sons or sons-in-law.

The survey covered eight townships in the state, two in western, three in northeastern, and three in southeastern Ohio. There was some variation in the showings for different portions of the state, but none which could not be accounted for by local conditions.

Federal investigations of the same subject has indicated that in the northern and western sections of the United States 84 per cent of the tenants related to their landlords are either sons or sons-in-law. In the south the comparable figure is 60 per cent.

"The fact that so large a proportion of tenants are relatives of

Listening In on That Landslide

You can't blame President-elect Herbert Hoover and members of his family for being jubilant over returns from Tuesday's election. Here is telephoned photo showing next occupant of the White House listening to the radio as state after state swung into the Hoover column. their landlords is significant," says the United States Department of Agriculture, "because such tenants are likely to have a concern in the upkeep and care of farms comparable to that of an owner-operator."

CUBS FAVORED TO WIN NEXT PENNANT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The aftermath of the Rogers, Hornsby deal leaves the Chicago Cubs favorites to win the National league pennant and the Boston Braves with a manager who has never played professional baseball. The task of stopping the Cubs with Hornsby, Wilson, Cuyler, Stephenson and Hartnett may prove more than the St. Louis Cardinals, New York Giants, Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates are equal to this season.

Hornsby's punch added to the already strong Chicago club may mean the first pennant for the Cubs since 1918. Fredrick McGuire, who batted .274 last season and Percy Jones, an erratic southpaw with a sore soup bone, were the only two regulars who departed. Leggett, Cunningham and Seibold, the other three players, were only minor leaguers, however promising they may be.

Unless too many temperamental stars prove the undoing of the Cubs, Joe McCarthy's club ought to dominate the National league next season. McCarthy has proved unusually adept at handling Prima Donnas, failing only with Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Deserve No Praise
It disgusts me to hear after-dinner and radio speakers praising ourselves. Praise our country but in the name of all that is decent, don't praise ourselves. ATWATER KENT developed such a good all-electric set that 200,000 families bought it in four months. Now here's the still better one—the Atwater Kent all-electric for 1929. And that marvelous radio factory in Philadelphia has perfected new ways of making fine radio and at the same time made the price still lower.

Think of an all-electric, plug-in receiver, true-tuned and selective, small and beautiful, lighter and trimmer, with more power, more range and even more dependability—at such a price!

And think of what there is for every body to listen to in this greatest of radio years—the Presidential campaign, with Smith and Hoover talking frequently—news bulletins and expensive concerts—sports and baseball—entertainment getting better and more varied all the time.

All we ask is a chance to let you try the 1929 Atwater Kent all-electric set. It's a thrill—but don't take our word for it. Have a demonstration. Drop in or telephone us, without delay.

WEST DRAMA AT GRAND

An added feature is the second chapter of "Tarzan the Mighty."

THRILLS' CAMERAMEN
The twelve cameramen under Arthur Edson, who photographed First National's "The Patent Leather Kid," starring Richard Barthelmess, now at the Cliftona Theater, following its sensational Broadway hit, got some real thrills while making the battle scenes.

Lying in a pit, grinding a camera while heavy tanks rolled directly over them, was only one of the stunts the cameramen did in the battle scenes.

Others shot the battles from the tops of pine trees, sixty feet high. They climbed to their perch by means of frail ladders and swayed in the breeze while grinding.

All the cameramen wore tin helmets while the battle action progressed, as the mine explosions threw rocks great distances.

But even helmets are no protection from bayonets if you are grinding in a trench while retreating Germans pile into it.

THRILLING DRAMA
"Shadows of the Night," a picture with an interesting background of newspaper reporting and underworld life, comes to the Metropolitan theatre Saturday. For the first time, the screen reveals what actually happens before that front-page story catches your eye at the breakfast table.

The film shows how Jimmy

Sherwood, working on a metropolitan daily, goes out with his dog "Flash" to uncover the story of a city-wide police "clean-up," and what happens to him. It is new, exciting stuff—full of gun-battles, dangers, and romance. Lawrence Gray plays the reporter-sleuth, and Louise Lorraine is an underworld girl he rescues.

ATWATER KENT developed such a good all-electric set that 200,000 families bought it in four months... Now here's the still better one—the Atwater Kent all-electric for 1929. And that marvelous radio factory in Philadelphia has perfected new ways of making fine radio and at the same time made the price still lower.

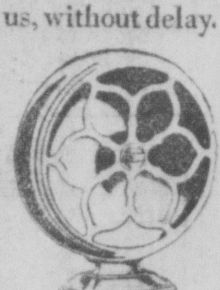

Think of an all-electric, plug-in receiver, true-tuned and selective, small and beautiful, lighter and trimmer, with more power, more range and even more dependability—at such a price!

And think of what there is for every body to listen to in this greatest of radio years—the Presidential campaign, with Smith and Hoover talking frequently—news bulletins and expensive concerts—lights and baseball—entertainment getting better and more varied all the time.

All we ask is a chance to let you try the 1929 Atwater Kent all-electric set. It's a thrill—but don't take our word for it. Have a demonstration. Drop in or telephone us, without delay.

WEST DRAMA AT GRAND
"The Clean Up Man," a smashing western drama with action suspense and a gripping mystery is presented at the Grand Theater tonight starring Ted Wells.

This is a story of love, laughs, hard riding, and quick shooting against a background of breath-taking beauty.

An added feature is the second chapter of "Tarzan the Mighty."

THRILLS CAMERAMEN
The twelve cameramen under Arthur Edson, who photographed First National's "The Patent Leather Kid," starring Richard Barthelmess, now at the Cliftona Theater, following its sensational Broadway hit, got some real thrills while making the battle scenes.

Lying in a pit, grinding a camera while heavy tanks rolled directly over them, was only one of the stunts the cameramen did in the battle scenes.

Others shot the battles from the tops of pine trees, sixty feet high. They climbed to their perch by means of frail ladders and swayed in the breeze while grinding.

All the cameramen wore tin helmets while the battle action progressed, as the mine explosions threw rocks great distances.

But even helmets are no protection from bayonets if you are grinding in a trench while retreating Germans pile into it.

THRILLING DRAMA

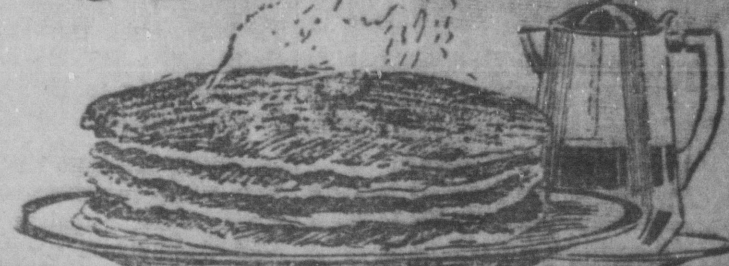

"Shadows of the Night," a picture with an interesting background of newspaper reporting and underworld life, comes to the Metropolitan theatre Saturday. For the first time the screen reveals what actually happens before that front-page story catches your eye at the breakfast table.

The film shows how Jimmy

Sherwood, working on a metropolitan daily, goes out with his dog "Flash" to uncover the story of a city-wide police "clean-up," and what happens to him. It is new, exciting stuff—full of gun-battles, dangers, and romance. Lawrence Gray plays the reporter-sleuth, and Louise Lorraine is an underworld girl he rescues.

Critics of modern college football picture it as an organized and commercialized spectacle. They even complain that the cheering sections are organized and back that desired amateurish spontaneity. Few will deny that college football today is a "big business" with some teams collecting as much as $300,000 in gate receipts in one short season and with crops of high-salaried coaches and trainers and large squads of subsidized players, but after all the commercialism found in football is something different from that associated with professional baseball. It may be traditions, it may be the players and it may be a difference in those who fill the grandstands and those who fill the baseball bleachers, but compared with baseball the sport of football is decidedly unprofessional and uncommercialized.

The football player who excels under its present stage of development must have physical courage and strength and mental alertness. Both are splendid qualities for the business of making a living out of sport. No better evidence that football is played to the king's taste today could be found than the fact that never was the sport as popular as now, never was it better played, and never did it so strongly compete with baseball for the coveted title of the Great American game.

THE APPEAL TO THE EYE

The importance of turning out attractively packaged products, and keeping designs up with the swiftly changing change of popular demand, was emphasized by an eastern business man.

It is rather amazing how people will buy goods put up in an attractive package and pay more for it, than they will for the same stuff pulled out of a barrel for less money. Of course on food stuffs there may be a reason for it, as many people feel that the stuff that comes in a small package is more likely to be clean.

If people are led to buy an inferior product because it is put up in a package with a pretty picture, they show themselves foolish. But it may be said that the producer who takes pains to put his product in a stylish looking package, has also taken pains to make very meritorious goods.

A GREAT ANNIVERSARY

On Nov. 11, the American people celebrate one of the great landmarks of history, the signing of the Armistice with the German Government and its allies. That date is a kind of great divide, which separates the pre-war world with its different standards, from the new developments that have come crowding so thick and fast on us since that time.

The World war shook modern civilization to its foundations, and it can never be the same as it was again. Like any great earthquake, that convulsion destroyed a great many useless structures which were mightily glad to see out of the way. And comparable to great convulsions of nature, it caused a collapse of some institutions and habits which have been useful, and it created a new world, but very slowly.

To our people, Armistice Day brings both sad and happy memories. They think of their boys who gave their all for their country, and of the pathetic disabled ones who are still with us, but whose life was in part ruined by their terrible sacrifice.

Yet we also think of the amazing success of the American arms of the superb valor shown by our soldiers, of the vindication of our country as a land of ideals, of the magnificent demonstration given by our people at home in organizing and supporting the war effort. There is a great deal in this occasion to make us feel proud and satisfied.

On the whole our country gave a wonderful account of its power

CABBAGES and KINGS

"The time has come," the Walrus said, "To talk of many things: Of shoes—and sailing— And cabbage—and kings—"
—Lewis Carroll

THE MOUNTAINEER (Tennessee Model)

His children roll about the floor, And with the piglets play, His daughter does the quendam chore, The while he kills the day.

He loafs until the evening sun Calls to hearth his own, His morning tasks not yet begun Though golden hours have flown.

Of power and glory recks he not, Nor cares for fortune's smile, He sees the beans are in the pot, And watches as they bile.

Though statesmen cry out in their heat, Their bitterness and gall, His pulse stirs not a single beat, Nor cares he for it all.

He knows not fortune's high duress, The fury of the kings— But lives his life in simpleness, Free from the trail of things.

No sudden terror breaks his rest, No cares his dreams to irk— He's found the islands of the blest, He's freed himself from work.

A diverting world, and nothing more diverting than this effort to "improve the condition" of the mountaineers. If ye humble scribe owned a cabin on the flank of some genial mountain, had a few pigs and a little black strap for sweetenin' and a few hands of tobacco, he would thank no one trying to improve a condition so perfect as that.

Improve it! Think of it, fellow wage slaves, and try to better it. A cabin, a smooth bore gun, a yellow hound dog and peace. Earth has no finer gifts for any man—and yet we talk solemnly of raising funds to help these lads who are sitting on the world.

Here is a busy day for a mountaineer. Arise when one feels like it, fry a little bacon, make coffee, make a few flapjacks, get out the black strap jug—breakfast. Wash the dishes, skilfully, vaguely, put the frying pan away with the grease still intact, good for another day. Light a pipe and sit on a bench, watching the shadows play across the lowlands. Scratch the houn' daws ears. Scrape some beans in the pot with a hunk of pork. Stir up a corn pone to place in the bottom of the three-legged kettle on the hearth. Warm up the rest of the breakfast coffee. Dinner. Back to the bench and the pipe and the dawg. Stare at the valley. Warm up a little of the houn' and the rest of the pork from dinner. Pour sweetenin' over the whole assemblage. Supper. Back to the bench and watch the gathering dusk. Somewhere, just before sunset, a hen cackles—an egg for breakfast. A rabbit is already playing in the cabbage patch. Get the gun. No need to hunt; wait until he comes near enough for a shot. Tomorrow's dinner has come to his door. Smoke the last pipe of the day under the big fat stars. Stretch a little, yawn prodigiously. Kick off the boots and be prepared for bed. Another good day's work done.

Maybe that doesn't suit everybody. Maybe you, fr example, prefer to hang on to a telephone all day, and hold conferences, and take lunch with some other "getter" and sit on boards of directors and drive ninety miles an hour, and attend lectures and address meetings and generally spin around 16 hours out of every 24. So be it. You know your own heart best. But don't try to invade the only Eden left in a jazz-mad world. Let be. Let be!

Once, during a flood, a lot of us holed up for a week or so without electric lights, or telephones, or movies, or concerts or lectures or humphons. We learned to engineer an oil lamp. We learned that we might sit down to a three volume novel without interruption from that greatest curse that was ever visited in a sinful world—the insolvent telephone. We learned (what the mountaineer could have told us long ago) that many of the things that seem important and useful were merely fetters to our action.

The Good passed and we all bopped out to make up for what we called "lost time." Lost time! It was the most painful time that most of us had ever known.

Let the reformers go to the cities to work, where there is real need of them. If in the mountains of Tennessee there remains one Elysian spot, don't disturb it.

and its aims in that mighty struggle. If we could only today live up to the spirit of sacrifice and service and humanitarian desire then manifested, the evils from which the world suffers would be greatly mitigated in a short time.

"MUST HAVE BEEN SOME PICNIC"

Broadway Love
by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter Janet obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother Frank, an idle, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician, who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill, when Montague insults her, she becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and wants to divorce his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his little daughter, Alice. She learns how to placate old Mrs. Quigg, Chester's mother, and generally makes life pleasant for the Quiggs. Frank Wilde returns home and introduces Janet to Cora Niles, his sweetheart. John Montague dies, leaving $200,000 to Janet, and later she meets Wyndham Stonor, English playwright, who becomes interested in her. But Janet is falling in love with Leonard! Alice is in negligence preparing for bed, but he insists on making supper for both of them. Detectives, hired by Churchill's wife, break in upon them for divorce evidence, and David tells Janet she may have to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.

Alice recovered quickly, just as David Churchill had said she would. And yet, Janet was worried; for she had been served with papers naming her as the co-respondent in the divorce suit which Amy immediately instituted. As it was summer, nothing would happen until early fall, but Janet resented the position in which she found herself.

One hot Saturday in July, Leonard came to spend the week-end at Cos Cob. Alice was sitting on a hammock slung between two shady trees, and Janet was sitting on the porch a little way from her. "I can never forgive David for letting me in for this," Janet said bitterly. "I think so much bitterness can only be accounted for by something else," Leonard commented with an irritating smile. "What do you mean? Is it any use for me to assure you in the simplest words that I don't love David Churchill?" she asked. "Try and understand this, Leonard! I don't love him! Shall I say it again, or has it penetrated?"

"Then what are you making such a fuss about?" he returned. "Conventions? Who in this date and age cares about conventions? Do you mind seeing your name in the paper? You aren't very important, and it won't be a nine-days wonder! Three days at the outside, and I doubt if you will achieve headlines. So why all the fuss?"

"I suppose you can never think of anyone but yourself," Janet retorted. "In this case I'm thinking of David Churchill," which wasn't entirely true. Leonard sighed noisily, as though to imply that he gave the problem up. "I thought you said you didn't care for him?"

"So I did, bright brain! But you will admit that you yourself admitted that he saved Alice's life?" "But your bitterness?" he reminded her.

summed new duties at the office of Mader and Ebert, funeral directors.

David Fowler died at his home on Maplewood-ave after an illness of seven days of pneumonia.

Mrs. Fred Lutz was hostess at a five course dinner given at her home at Hinman. Covers were laid for 14.

15 YEARS AGO Roscoe Reed, of Tarlton, has been very ill for the past two weeks and is said to be threatened with appendicitis.

Derby experienced its first fire

"I got offered a job in Detroit—a marvellous job—and I couldn't take it because of Cora—could I, Miniature?" That minute person smiled at Janet. "That's what he says," she explained. "Well, I couldn't leave her behind," Frank went on, "so we got married. We got married this morning." Janet laughed. The irresponsible Frank, who had been unable to look after himself a few months ago—through the miracle of love and through his intense desire to protect the tiny Cora, had now achieved an excellent position and had actually become a married man!

"I think it's the wisest thing I've ever did in your life," she said as she kissed him. She turned to Cora. "You have no idea of what you have done for Frank," Janet whispered. "But perhaps I have," Cora answered with a wisdom beyond her years. "So that week-end, as Frank and Cora did not return until the Sunday evening, was a merry one, and Janet tried to put from her the thought of the impending divorce suit.

That Saturday night the garden was bathed in moonlight, and Janet was sitting at her open window. From below came the strains of a violin, softly and exquisitely played. Looking down, Janet perceived Leonard. "That was lovely," she thanked him, leaning out of her window. "Come down!" he begged her. "She had not yet undressed, so presently she joined him in the garden, and together they strolled through that magic moonlight down to the shore.

"It's no good," he whispered, as they sat down on the beach. "You must know it, darling—I love you so!" "You do, Leonard?"

"So much more than you know—so much more than I can tell you except through my music," he told her. "Janet! Isn't there any hope?"

"I think there is, Leonard," she admitted. "Only, love—it's so precious—that one ought to be very, very sure."

She had never admitted as much before to him. He took her hands and kissed them, and they sat silent in that magic hour which the moonlight created for them. Then suddenly he took her in his arms and kissed her. For the second time she yielded momentarily to the fire that was his. Then she drew away from him.

"I have to be sure first, Leonard! Oh, my dear—I must be sure first!"

Great War Ten Years Ago

November 9, 1918. French troops enter Mezieres. British advance brings line within two miles of Mauberge. Pershing's men gain more ground beyond Sedan. The Kaiser refuses to abdicate as "King of Prussia." Foch tells German armistice delegates that terms must be accepted before the 11th.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Ashville, Ohio, Nov. 8, 1928. Editor, The Circleville Herald:

I am writing this in regard to the recent election in Pickaway-co. I do not intend to hold a post-mortem on what has happened, but rather to try to remedy the situation in the future for in all probability there has been enough said to fill a good size book.

But what was the real cause that the Democrats failed to elect men to the positions that rightfully belonged to them. Was it because Hoover carried the county? I say no because those same people gave Underwood, Marion, and some others a majority. It was party discord within the Democrat party in Pickaway-co that caused the party to fail Nov. 6 last to elect men selected by that same party at the August primary.

I think and so do hundreds of others in this county that some of the Democratic committee in this county should relinquish their positions and let someone else take over the reins of our party in this county.

We are down but not out and our party should begin to lay plans now for the next campaign, and if the Democrat party in this county hopes for victory two years hence it must completely reorganize now.

When men of our own political faith refuse to pay from the county funds money that is lawfully, rightfully and morally due to officers of this county then perhaps it is good to have a house cleaning once in a while, and I believe that the people of this county thought this way on last election day. The only way that Democrats in this county can hope for results in the future is to completely reorganize our party. Sweep out the Mussolini's of the court house and put in their place men who can campaign along 20th century methods and not unorthodox methods of 50 or 100 years ago, because people of today are too intelligent to vote against their own interests.

This is not only my view but hundreds of others in our party. I am not seeking to put the blame on those of our party who unfortunately gave their time and money, but am trying to put the blame where it belongs; upon those of our party who have not played fair with their own party and to those that elevated them to their positions that they now hold.

J. S. Hoover, Justice of the Peace.

"Old Ironsides"

According to Joshua Humphreys' statement in regard to the Constitution, the frame of the vessel was made from live oak and red cedar; the keel of white oak; the decks of Carolina pitch pine. Joshua Humphreys was the designer of the ship. The Constitution is sometimes called Old Ironsides because of the hardness of her planking and timbers.

Plenty of These

There is a young man in this neighborhood who doesn't worry a particle about a little thing like a knock in the motor or a flat tire so long as the muffer cut-out is working all right.—Ohio State Journal.

In "Death Game"

Nigger "Nate" Raymond (above), Pacific coast gambler who came to New York on his honeymoon and cut in on lion's share of Arnold Rothstein's $300,000 card losses. He was questioned by police in gaudy-king's mystery shooting and later allowed to go free.

Red Cross Goal for 1929 Is Five Million Members

If it were not for the American Red Cross and the prompt assistance it is prepared to render in emergency relief to the stricken, American people might well wonder what would be the aftermath when the four horsemen of death, disaster, disease and ruin ride across the skies laying waste vast territories in the United States, and claiming untold numbers of lives. This thought is strikingly pictured in the Red Cross poster, painted for nation-wide use in the Twelfth Annual Roll Call by Cornelius Hicks. Only within a short period has the Red Cross responded to one of the greatest relief tasks in its career, when it was called into service following the West Indies hurricane, which struck Porto Rico and Florida and several small islands in the West Indies group. More than a half million men, women and children had to be fed, housed and clothed by the Red Cross, due to this terrific storm. The loss of life in Florida was as great as had ever occurred in any catastrophe before in the history of the United States. This was the eighty-ninth disaster in which the Red Cross had been called into action, or for monetary aid in this year. This is the spectacular work which centers attention upon the Red Cross—but it should not conceal the year-round labor of the Red Cross nurse in public health work in rural communities; of the Red Cross nutritionist who carries to the school children of the nation the lesson of proper eating; of the Red Cross life saver and first aid instructor, who annually teaches to hundreds of thousands the lesson of saving human life; of the Red Cross teacher of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, whose aim is to teach home care of the invalid; of the Red Cross worker who, ten years after the Armistice, still carries on for the world war veteran. Under the Red Cross banner also is fostered the Junior Red Cross, with a membership of 6,000,000 American school children. For the support of these activities the American Red Cross needs 5,000,000 memberships and has set its goal for that number during the Roll Call Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day—November 11 to 29.

The fury of the kings—
But lives his life in simpleness,
Free from the trail of things.

No sudden terror breaks his rest,
No cares his dreams toirk—
He's found the islands of the blest,
He's freed himself from work.

A diverting world, and nothing more Diverting than this effort
To "improve the condition" of The mountaineers. If ye humble scribe Owned a cabin on the flank of Some genial mountain, had a few
Pigs and a little black strap
For sweetenin' and a few hands of Tobacco, he would thank no one trying
To improve a condition so perfect
As that.

Improve it! Think of it, fellow wage slaves, and try to better it. A cabin, a smooth bore gun, a yellow houn' dog and peace. Earth has no finer gifts for any man—and yet we talk solemnly of raising funds to help these lads who are sitting on the world.

Here is a busy day for a mountaineer. Arise when one feels like it, fry a little bacon, make coffee, make a few flapjacks, get out the black strap jug—breakfast. Wash the dishes sketchily, vaguely; put the frying pan away with the grease still intact, good for another day. Light a pipe and sit on a bench, watching the shadows play across the lowlands. Scratch the houn' dawgs ears.

Yawn, put some beans in the pot with a hunk of pork. Stir up a corn pone to place in the bottom of the three-legged kettle on the hearth. Warm up the rest of the breakfast coffee. Dinner. Back to the bench and the pipe and the dawg. Stare at the valley. Warm up a little of the hominy, and the rest of the pork from dinner. Pour sweetenin' over the whole assemblage. Supper. Back to the bench and watch the gathering dusk. Somewhere, just before sunset, a hen cackles—an egg for breakfast. A rabbit is already playing in the cabbage patch. Get the gun. No need to hunt; wait until he comes near enough for a shot. Tomorrow's dinner has come to his door. Smoke the last pipe of the day under the big fat stars. Stretch a little, yawn prodigiously. Kick off the boots and be prepared for bed. Another good day's work done.

Maybe that doesn't suit everybody. Maybe you, for example, prefer to hang on to a telephone all day, and hold conferences, and take lunch with some other "getter" and sit on boards of directors and drive ninety miles an hour, and attend lectures and address meetings and generally spin around 16 hours out of every 24. So be. You know your own heart best. But don't try to invade the only Eden left in a jazz-mad world. Let be, let be!

Once, during a flood, a lot of us holed up for a week or so without electric lights, or telephones, or movies, or concerts or lectures or luncheons. We learned to engineer an oil lamp. We learned that we might sit down to a three volume novel without interruption from that greatest curse that was ever visited in a sinful world—the insolvent telephone. We learned (what the mountaineer could have told us long ago) that many of the things that seem important and needful were merely fetters to our action.

The flood passed and we all hopped out to make up for what we called "lost time." Lost time! It was the most painful time that most of us had ever known.

Let the reformers go to the cities to work, where there is real need of them. If in the mountains of Tennessee there remains one Elysian spot, don't disturb it.
H. M. L.

and its aims in that mighty struggle. If we could only today live up to the spirit of sacrifice and service and humanitarian desire then manifested, the evils from which the world suffers would be greatly mitigated in a short time.

"MUST HAVE BEEN SOME PICNIC"

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgeslow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor, dies, his young and pretty daughter Janet obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician, who loves her, and Dr. David Churchill. When Montague insults her Janet becomes Dr. Churchill's secretary. He tells her he is in love with her and wants to divorce his wife, so Janet gives up her position and goes to live with Chester Quigg, Leonard's artist uncle, and his little daughter, Alice. She learns how to placate old Mrs. Quigg, Chester's mother, and generally makes life pleasant for the Quiggs. Frank Wilde returns home and introduces Janet to Cora Niles, his sweetheart. John Montague dies, leaving $200,000 to Janet, and later she meets Wyndham Stonor, English playwright, who becomes interested in her. But Janet is falling in love with Leonard. Alice Quigg is operated on for mastoiditis, by Dr. Churchill, and after the operation the famous surgeon calls on Janet at the studio. She is in negligee, preparing for bed, but he insists on making supper for both of them. Detectives, hired by Churchill's wife, break in upon them for divorce evidence, and David tells Janet she may have to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.
ALICE recovered quickly, just as David Churchill had said she would. And yet, Janet was worried; for she had been served with papers naming her as the co-respondent in the divorce suit which Amy immediately instituted. As it was Summer, nothing would happen until early Fall, but Janet resented the position in which she found herself.

One hot Saturday in July, Leonard came to spend the week-end at Cos Cob. Alice was lying in a hammock slung between two shady trees, and Janet was sitting on the porch a little way from her. "I can never forgive David for letting me in for that," Janet said bitterly.

"I think so much bitterness can only be accounted for by something else," Leonard commented with an irritating smile.

"What do you mean? Is it any use for me to assure you in the simplest words that I don't love David Churchill?" she asked. "Try and understand this, Leonard! I don't love him! Shall I say it again, or has it penetrated?"

"Then what are you making such a fuss about?" he returned. "Conventions? Who in this date and age cares about conventions? Do you mind seeing your name in the paper? You aren't very important, but I won't be a nine-days wonder! Three days at the outside, and I doubt if you will achieve headlines. So why all the fuss?"

"I suppose you can never think of anyone but yourself," Janet retorted. "In this case I'm thinking of David Churchill," which wasn't entirely true.

Leonard sighed noisily, as though to imply that he gave the problem up. "I thought you said that you didn't care for him?"

"So I did, bright brain! But you will admit that you yourself admitted that he saved Alice's life?"

"But your bitterness?" he reminded her.

"I got offered a job in Detroit—a marvelous job—and I couldn't take it because of Cora—could I, Miniature?" That minute person smiled at Janet. "That's what he says," she explained.

"Well, I couldn't leave her behind," Frank went on, "so we got married—we got married this morning."

Janet laughed. The irresponsible Frank—Frank, who had been unable to look after himself a few months ago—through the miracle of love and through his intense desire to protect the tiny Cora, had now achieved an excellent position and had actually become a married man!

"I think it's the wisest thing you ever did in your life!" she said as she kissed him. She turned to Cora. "You have no idea of what you have done for Frank?" Janet whispered.

"But perhaps I have!" Cora answered with a wisdom beyond her years.

So that week-end, as Frank and Cora did not return until the Sunday evening, was a merry one, and Janet tried to put from her the thought of the impending divorce suit.

That Saturday night the garden was bathed in moonlight, and Janet was sitting at her open window. From below came the strains of a violin, softly and exquisitely played. Looking down, Janet perceived Leonard.

"That was lovely!" she thanked him, leaning out of her window. "Come down!" he begged her. She had not yet undressed, so presently she joined him in the garden, and together they strolled through that magic moonlight down to the shore.

"It's no good," he whispered, as they sat down on the beach. "You must know it, darling—I love you so!"

And Janet, who loved him but was afraid through past experience to admit it, sighed happily. "You do, Leonard?"

"So much more than you know—so much more than I can tell you except through my music," he told her. "Janet! Isn't there any hope?"

"I think there is, Leonard," she admitted. "Only, love—it's so precious—that one ought to be very, very sure."

She had never admitted as much before to him. He took her hands and kissed them, and they sat silent in that magic hour which the moonlight created for them.

Then suddenly he took her in his arms and kissed her. For the second time she yielded momentarily to the fire that was his. Then she drew away from him.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Ashville, Ohio,
Nov. 8, 1928.

Editor, The Circleville Herald:
I am writing this in regard to the recent election in Pickaway-co. I do not intend to hold a post-mortem on what has happened, but rather to try to remedy the situation in the future for in all probability there has been enough said to fill a good size book.

But what was the real cause that the Democrats failed to elect men to the positions that rightfully belonged to them. Was it because Hoover carried the county? I say no because those same people gave Underwood, Marion, and some others a majority. It was party discord within the Democrat party in Pickaway-co. that caused the party to fail Nov. 6 last to elect men selected by that same party at the August primary.

I think and so do hundreds of others in this county that some of the Democratic committee in this county should relinquish their positions and let someone else take over the reins of our party in this county.

We are down but not out and our party should begin to lay plans now for the next campaign, and if the Democrat party in this county hopes for victory two years hence it must completely reorganize now.

When men of our own political faith refuse to pay from the county funds money that is lawfully, rightfully and morally due to officers of this county then perhaps it is good to have a house cleaning once in a while, and I believe that the people of this county thought this way on last election day. The only way that Democrats in this county can hope for results in the future is to completely reorganize our party, sweep out the Mussolini's of the court house and put in their place men who can campaign along modern methods of 50 or 100 years ago, because people of today are too intelligent to vote against their own interests.

This is not only my view but hundreds of others in our party. I am not seeking to put the blame on those of our party who unflinchingly gave their time and money, but am trying to put the blame where it belongs; upon those of our party who have not played fair with their own party and to those that elevated them to their positions that they now hold.

J. S. Hoover,
Justice of the Peace.

"Old Ironsides"

According to Joshua Humphreys' statement in regard to the Constitution, the frame of the vessel was made from live oak and red cedar; the keel of white oak; the decks of Carolina pitch pine. Red Cross Goal for 1929 Is Five Million Members

Our Greatest Mother + JOIN! +

If it were not for the American Red Cross and the prompt assistance it is prepared to render in emergency relief to the stricken, American people might well wonder what would be the aftermath when the four horsemen of death, disaster, disease and ruin ride across the skies laying waste vast territories in the United States, and claiming untold numbers of lives.

This thought is strikingly pictured in the Red Cross poster, painted for nation-wide use in the Twelfth Annual Roll Call by Cornelius Jicks.

Only within a short period has the Red Cross responded to one of the greatest relief tasks in its career, when it was called into service following the West Indies hurricane, which struck Porto Rico and Florida and several small islands in the West Indies group. More than a half million men, women and children had to be fed, housed and clothed by the Red Cross, due to this terrific storm. The loss of life in Florida was as great as had ever occurred in any catastrophe before in the history of the United States.

This was the eighty-ninth disaster in which the Red Cross had been called into action, or for monetary aid in this year. This is the spectacular work which centers attention upon the Red Cross—but it should not conceal the year-round labor of the Red Cross nurse in public health work in rural communities; of the Red Cross nutritionist of the nation the lesson of proper eating; of the Red Cross life saver and first aid instructor, who annually teaches to hundreds of thousands the lesson of saving human life; of the Red Cross teacher of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, whose aim is to teach home care of the invalid; of the Red Cross worker who, ten years after the Armistice, still carries on for the world war veteran. Under the Red Cross banner also is fostered the Junior Red Cross, with a membership of 4,000,000 American school children.

For the support of these activities the American Red Cross needs 5,000,000 memberships and has set its goal for that number during the Roll Call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day—November 11 to 29.

REMEMBER NEED OF CLEAN SOIL

It is a well recognized fact now-adays that to raise pigs successfully the McLean county system must be followed, which means raising them under sanitary conditions so that they will not become infested with the roundworm and a lot of the ordinary so-called fifth diseases such as bulmosis, snuffles, necrotic enteritis, mange, etc., says the Wisconsin Agriculturalist. The McLean system is comparatively simple and can be carried out by any man who is willing to do a little extra work to avoid the usual heavy losses and lack of thrift seen among pigs raised in old hog lots that are full of worm eggs and disease germs.

The first step to take in the sanitation program is to thoroughly clean out the farrowing quarters and then scrub the floor and partitions with one pound of lye dissolved in 30 gallons of boiling water and finally spraying the walls with a strong stock dip. The lye loosens the dirt and the hot water kills the roundworm eggs, while disinfectant destroys germs of infectious diseases. The next step consists in washing each sow's sides and udder with warm water and soap to remove the worm eggs that are apt to adhere to her body if she has been running in an old hog lot. Two or three days before farrowing, place the clean, sow in the clean, well-bedded farrowing pen. When her pigs are a week or two old, if the pen is needed by other sows, haul, (don't drive) her and her litter to a clean pasture. This pasture, of course, must be provided with movable houses for shelter.

Experience has shown that pigs raised on a clean, well-bedded farrowing pen are invariably much more thrifty, make more rapid gain in weight and make their gain on less feed than when they are raised on worm-infested ground. There are many types of excellent movable houses on the market which in most cases can be purchased for less than it costs to build them at home. Some even use these houses for farrowing, especially for fall farrowing. However, when a central hog house is available this usually proves more satisfactory, as the pigs can then be given more and better attention at farrowing time.

Show Animals Rendered Immune to Hog Cholera

Show hogs usually are rendered immune to cholera before they enter the circuit. However, when they are brought back home, they are twelve days or after the show season is over they should be isolated, not because there is danger of their having cholera, but because there is a possibility that they may carry infection in their blood to the hogs at home. In some territories occasionally a farmer borrows or lends hogs for breeding purposes or sows may be brought to the farm to be bred. Utmost precautions are necessary in cases of this kind. No strange hogs should be brought home and place nor should any breeding animals be permitted to leave if there are any sick hogs in the neighborhood. Even though there is no apparent sickness in the community it is safest to isolate all breeding animals that have come in contact with hogs from neighboring farms.

LIVE STOCK HINTS

A horse hide furnishes about 18 pounds of leather.

Whenever a hog is sick cholera should always be suspected.

The state veterinarian of Nebraska says it is unwise to run the noses of hogs.

Feed the lambs on choice grain and roughage or on very good, clean pasture.

To bring the top price a lamb must be fat but, as a rule, it must not weigh over 55 pounds when marketed.

In the postal service, valuable packages are carried by registered mail. Likewise, in the live stock industry the registered male delivers the best goods.

A ewe which is in good physical condition at the time of breeding is more sure to produce and also more likely to produce twins instead of a single lamb.

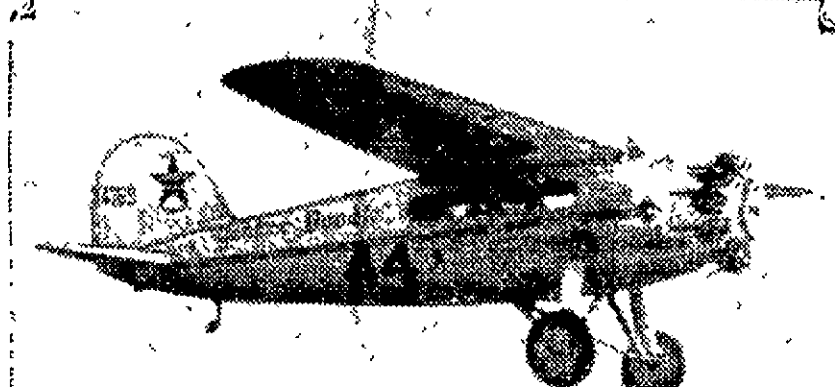

To produce the best results, the lambs should be fed in a creep from which the ewes are excluded. This makes it certain that the lambs will get the full benefit from all the feed.

Hog mange is caused by a mange mite which burrows into the skin to lay its eggs. It greatly worries infested animals causing them to rub and irritate the skin until it becomes cracked and thickened making them generally unthrifty. Death often occurs when small pigs are infested.

The use of silage is fast revolutionizing the feeding of beef cattle. Just as it already has the feeding of milk cows in the leading dairy sections of our country. On well balanced rations in which corn silage is the chief roughage, cattle will fatten rapidly and reach a high finish with only a moderate allowance of grain and other concentrates.

THE HOYT MAN

The people of Chillicothe are living better day by day in every way.

The suffering people of Chillicothe and Ross County, many who have been held prisoners by rheumatism and Neuritis for periods of 25 years, have found permanent relief by the use of Hoyt's Compound. This is the medicine that hundreds of people in Chillicothe and Ross county are talking so much about.

If you are suffering with Rheumatism, Neuritis, Stomach Trouble, Constipation, Kidney and Bladder Trouble or a run-down, nervous physical condition, don't wait longer, but go today to your Drug Store and purchase Hoyt's Compound and be convinced of the merits of this great medicine, as many citizens of your county, many of whom you know, have done.

This medicine is composed of a combination of the juices of the following roots and herbs: Sassafras, May apple root, Burdock, Flag root, Sassafras, Cassia, Sassafras, Fennel seed, Honas, Sassafras and Potassium iodine.

LOANS UP TO $500

Three cents is a lot of money when added to the price of a cake of yeast but it is negligible and hardly missed when taken from your loan dollar to pay for money that prevented the loss of furniture, credit and happiness. The cost of a loan is small compared with the good it renders and the enjoyment it affords.

In times of need when your good name and personal belongings are at stake, you may depend upon The City Loan for courteous financial assistance at a cost you can easily afford. More than forty thousand families already know the advantages of obtaining money under The City Loan Plan for this same purpose of protection.

It is a well recognized fact nowadays that to raise pigs successfully the McLean county system must be followed, which means raising them under sanitary conditions so that they will not become infested with the roundworm and a lot of the ordinary so-called filth diseases such as bullnose, sniffles, necrotic enteritis, mange, etc., says the Wisconsin Agriculturist. The McLean system is comparatively simple and can be carried out by any man who is willing to do a little extra work to avoid the usual heavy losses and lack of thrift seen among pigs raised in old hog lots that are full of worm eggs and disease germs.

The first step to take in the sanitation program is to thoroughly clean out the farrowing quarters and then scrub the floor and partitions with one pound of lye dissolved in 30 gallons of boiling water and finally spraying the walls with a strong stock dip. The lye loosens the dirt and the hot water kills the roundworm eggs, while disinfectant destroys germs of infectious diseases. The next step consists in washing each sow's sides and udder with warm water and soap to remove the worm eggs that are certain to adhere to her body if she has been running in an old hog lot. Two or three days before farrowing, place the clean sow in the clean, well-bedded farrowing pen. When her pigs are a week or two old, if the pen is needed by other sows, haul, (don't drive) her and her litter to a clean pasture. This pasture, of course, must be provided with movable houses for shelter.

Experience has shown that pigs raised on clean ground till four months old are invariably much more thrifty, make more rapid gain in weight and make their gain on less feed than when they are raised on worm-infested ground. There are many types of excellent movable houses on the market which in most cases can be purchased for less than it costs to build them at home. Some even use these houses for farrowing, especially for fall farrowing. However, when a central hog house is available this usually proves more satisfactory, as the pigs can then be given more and better attention at farrowing time.

Show Animals Rendered Immune to Hog Cholera

Show hogs usually are rendered immune to cholera before they enter the circuit. However, when they are brought back home between fairs or after the show season is over they should be isolated, not because there is danger of their having cholera, but because there is a possibility that they may carry infection in their bodies to the hogs at home. In some territories occasionally a farmer borrows or lends hogs for breeding purposes or sows may be brought to the farm to be bred. Utmost precautions are necessary in cases of this kind. No strange hogs should be brought on the place nor should any breeding animals be permitted to leave if there are any sick hogs in the neighborhood. Even though there is no apparent sickness in the community it is safest to isolate all breeding animals that have come in contact with hogs from neighboring farms.

LIVE STOCK HINTS

A horse hide furnishes about 18 pounds of leather.

Whenever a hog is sick cholera should always be suspected.

The state veterinarian of Nebraska says it is unwise to ring the noses of hogs.

Feed the lambs on choice grain and roughage or on very good, clean pasture.

To bring the top price a lamb must be fat but, as a rule, it must not weigh over 85 pounds when marketed.

In the postal service, valuable packages are carried by registered mail. Likewise, in the live stock industry the registered male delivers the best goods.

A ewe which is in good physical condition at the time of breeding is more sure to produce and also more likely to produce twins instead of a single lamb.

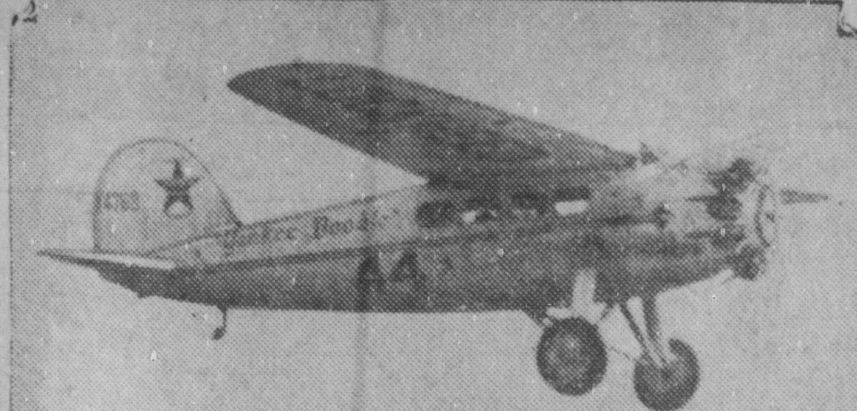

To produce the best results, the lambs should be fed in a creep from which the ewes are excluded. That makes it certain that the lambs will get the full benefit from all the feed.

Hog mange is caused by a mange mite which burrows into the skin to lay its eggs. It greatly worries infested animals, causing them to rub and irritate the skin until it becomes cracked and thickened, making them generally unthrifty. Death often occurs when small pigs are infested.

The use of silage is fast revolutionizing the feeding of beef cattle, just as it already has the feeding of milk cows in the leading dairy sections of our country. On well-balanced rations in which corn silage is the chief roughage, cattle will fatten rapidly and reach a high finish with only a moderate allowance of grain and other concentrates.

In five years there will be more passengers traffic by air in the United States than there now is in Europe, predicts Second Assistant Postmaster Gen. Glover.

Red and Black Makes Poor Showing in Clash With Ross-co Orangemen.

(By FRANKLIN KIBLER.)

Like a roadrunner crushing a pebble, the Chillicothe Orangemen went over, through and around the C. H. S. Tigers, on the local field Thursday and their first, second, third, and fourth teams, if they had the fourth, defeated the local team by a score of 52 to 6. A large crowd attended the game and several hundred Chillicotheans were there with plenty of pep.

The local team was defeated before they went into the game, and their touchdown came at the end of the game when Grant went over the line after a flock of substitutions by the visitors.

Chillicothe's first team left the game after the first quarter and their second team made about as large a gain on Circleville as the first. The half ended with the score 28 to 0 and the third team entered the game.

PUNTS ARE SHORT

Grant's punts were nothing to compare with the way he booted the oval in other games and all of the C. H. S. fellows failed to play the game of which they are capable. They made some good tackles after Chillicothe men had made large gains, but the team as a whole made a poor showing. Grant's punts averaged about 15 yards, but he again was the only consistent player on the local squad. He deserves most of the credit for what gains Circleville made.

When the first team was in the game, Graham, Mills and Hum-

WHO SAYS 5c CAN'T BUY A GOOD CIGAR?

Here's One That Accepts Every Challenge

A long-filler, ripe-tobacco cigar for a lowly nickel! Isn't that just about the most amazing cigar news you've read in years? Everybody knows that real ripe tobacco is usually considered too expensive to put into five-cent cigars. But you'll find it in Havana Ribbons. No bitter, rummy and-ripe top leaves, no flat, over-ripe, bottom leaves. Nothing but flavorful, savory, fully-ripe middle leaves from heart to wrapper.

But that's not the half of it. Havana Ribbon is made of long-filler tobacco. Not "ends," "shorts" or "scraps." Bring out those nickels you've considered good only to buy newspapers with and flip 'em across the nearest cigar counter with the request for some Havana Ribbons. They'll cut down your smoke bill and raise your smoke enjoyment as never before. Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

STATE-IOWA GAME HEADS WEEK'S BILL

Championship of Western Conference Probably Will Be Decided Saturday.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Ohio State and Iowa, the only undefeated and untied teams in the Big Ten conference, meet tomorrow at Columbus in a game which seems likely to decide the 1928 western conference football championship.

While the Hawkeyes and Buckeyes are battling, other Big Ten teams will be in action at other centers.

Wisconsin, which has only a tie with Purdue to mar its records meets Chicago at Madison, Purdue and Northwestern clash at Evanston and Indiana and Minnesota meet at Minneapolis. The other two conference teams play outside foes, Michigan going to Baltimore for a contest with the Navy, and Illinois aiding Butler in the dedication of a new football stadium, at Indianapolis.

OHIO STATE INTERESTS

Because of the championship dispute involved the Iowa-Ohio State game tops the schedule.

The two teams are leading contenders for western gridiron honors, while Dr. John W. Wilce and Burton Ingwersen, the two coaches who a year ago were subject to alumni criticism are being praised.

Ohio, because of its powerful and versatile attack, is conceded the advantage over the Iowans.

Iowa is slightly superior in the backfield. Iowa's attack, headed by Mayes McLain and the fleet Pape, is better than any offensive the Buckeyes have faced this season and the 85,000 fans expected at the contest may see one of the most bitterly contested battles of the season.

Glen Thistlewaite's Wisconsin Badgers will be almost as much interested in the Ohio State-Iowa game as their own battle with Chicago the Badgers are doped as easy winners over the Maroon and unless an upset occurs will go into their game with Iowa, Nov. 17, still undefeated.

WILDCATS FAVORED

Neither Purdue or Northwestern have any championship hopes, but their contest at Evanston probably will attract 45,000 fans. Purdue has defeated Chicago, 40 to Indiana's battle with Minnesota will have little bearing on the 1928 championship race, but is regarded as a playoff of last year's 14 to 14 tie between the two teams, which kept the Gophers from winning the 1927 title.

GOOD NEWS FOR CITY LOAN BORROWERS ON LOANS, $25 to $500

For the welfare of its borrowing customers, The City Loan has made two very important changes in its business benefiting all existing loans as well as all loans made hereafter. One provides a substantial saving in interest to those who pay promptly; and the other automatically reduces payments during the life of the loan. The new changes are as follows:

FIRST

Each regular loan payment received by the company on or before the day it is due, or within five days thereafter, shall earn a deduction of one-tenth (1-10) of the carrying charge or interest, as a reward for punctuality.

Example: On a certain loan the regular monthly payment of $14 is due on the 16th day of the month, and the accumulated interest on the day of payment is $5.67. If the full payment of $14 is paid on or before the 21st, one-tenth of the interest ($5.67) in this case will be deducted as a saving to the customer. Thus $5.10 (instead of $5.67) pays the interest to date. In like manner, one-tenth of the total interest on the entire amount of the loan can be saved if each payment is paid promptly within five days after it falls due.

SECOND

"On all installment loans exceeding $100 the regular monthly payment on each loan shall be automatically decreased Seven ($7.00) Dollars, when and as the unpaid balance of such loan is reduced to $100 or even multiples thereof; the purpose being to equalize, in a measure, the average monthly payment with the average amount of the loan."

Example: The regular monthly payment on a loan of $465 is $35. In due course of time, when the loan is diminished to $400 the payment automatically decreases to $28 per month. At $300 it decreases to $21 per month. And on the final $100 the payment decreases to $7 per month, and so remains until the loan is repaid in full.

The following chart clearly indicates the size of loans made by The City Loan and the time allowed for re-payment, and also shows how the above rules work to the benefit of its borrowing customers:

You Can Borrow	Time For Repayment	Average Monthly Payment	Average Monthly Cost
$ 70.00	18 Months	$ 5.00	$1.06
100.00	19 "	6.73	1.47
150.00	23 "	8.43	1.91
200.00	28 "	9.58	2.44
250.00	30 "	11.16	2.82
300.00	34 "	12.09	3.27
350.00	37 "	12.92	3.46
400.00	39 "	14.09	3.83
450.00	41 "	15.07	4.09
500.00	43 "	16.03	4.40

FOR FARMERS: Loans on a straight period of six months' time can be arranged with interest payable quarterly, instead of monthly, if desired. The same reward for prompt payment is allowed farmers who pay their quarterly interest promptly as is allowed on the monthly payment plan.

GANS IS AMBITIOUS

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Baby Joe Gans, inspired by the fact that Jack Dempsey has purchased a financial interest in him, will attempt to knock out Joe Glick, when the pair meet in a lightweight bout in Madison Square Garden Nov. 15. The winner of the Gans-Glick bout probably will get a chance at Sammy Mandell's lightweight title early next year.

OPPOSE ROBINSON

BROOKLYN, Nov. 9—Wilbert Robinson, president and manager of the Brooklyn Robins, may be removed as manager of the club or asked to resign when the directors of the club meet December 11. Steve McKeever, vice-president and treasurer of the club, and leader of the movement against "Robbie," said today. Max Carey has been mentioned as Robbie's successor.

CONSTANT EXPANSION

—to serve Chevrolet owners better

SINCE January 1st more than a million new Chevrolets have been delivered to owners—making the Chevrolet Motor Company, for the second consecutive year, the world's largest builder of automobiles!

This outstanding achievement has been attained not only because of the quality and value of Chevrolet cars—but also because there has been a constant expansion of Chevrolet service facilities.

In order to bring these mammoth facilities of the Chevrolet factories to Chevrolet dealers and owners everywhere, there have been erected 26 huge parts warehouses in the principal centers of distribution. This expansion program is continually going on—for four great additional warehouses will be in operation by January first and seven more by the summer of 1929.

Into the service departments of all Chevrolet dealers, Chevrolet has brought special tools and shop equipment—designed under the supervision of Chevrolet engineers. This equipment definitely assures maximum speed and precision and the lowest possible cost in the performance of every Chevrolet service and repair operation—which are charged for on a flat rate basis.

Furthermore, all of these tremendous facilities have been made available to 15,000 authorized service stations manned by skilled mechanics, over 25,000 of whom have been factory trained to efficiently handle every repair operation on a Chevrolet car. In addition, there are over 4,000 other points where genuine Chevrolet parts may be obtained.

Uniformly efficient, uniformly reliable and within easy reach of everybody everywhere—this great service organization is maintaining at peak efficiency the fine performance for which Chevrolet cars have always been renowned.

We cordially invite you to come in and see how our service facilities reflect the influence of this great national service program.

GOOD NEWS FOR CITY LOAN BORROWERS ON LOANS, $25 to $500

For the welfare of its borrowing customers, The City Loan has made two very important changes in its business benefiting all existing loans as well as all loans made hereafter. One provides a substantial saving in interest to those who pay promptly; and the other automatically reduces payments during the life of the loan. The new changes are as follows:

FIRST

Example: On a certain loan the regular monthly payment of $14 is due on the 16th day of the month, and the accumulated interest on the day of payment is $5.67. If the full payment of $14 is paid on or before the 21st, one-tenth of the interest (57 cents in this case) will be deducted as a saving to the customer. Thus $5.10 (instead of $5.67) pays the interest to date. In like manner, one-tenth of the total interest on the entire amount of the loan can be saved if each payment is paid promptly within five days after it falls due.

The following chart clearly indicates the size of loans made by The City Loan and the time allowed for re-payment, and also shows how the above rules work to the benefit of its borrowing customers:

You Can Borrow	Time For Repayment	Average Monthly Payment	Average Monthly Cost
$ 70.00	18 Months	$ 5.00	$1.06
100.00	19 "	6.73	1.47
150.00	23 "	8.43	1.91
200.00	28 "	9.58	2.44
250.00	30 "	11.16	2.82
300.00	34 "	12.09	3.27
350.00	37 "	12.92	3.46
400.00	39 "	14.09	3.83
450.00	41 "	15.07	4.09
500.00	43 "	16.03	4.40

FOR FARMERS: Loans for a straight period of six months' time can be arranged with interest payable quarterly instead of monthly, if desired. The same reward for prompt payment is allowed farmers who pay their quarterly interest promptly as is allowed on the monthly payment plan.

OBITUARY

Henry Frederick Hampshire was born March 28, 1859. He was the son of Eli and Melissa Barton Hampshire.

He graduated from St. Louisville high school, was a graduate of Utica Normal school in 1880 and post-graduate at Athens college, and Teachers' Training school at Lebanon.

He was next to the oldest of a family of nine children of whom all have departed this life except two.

He was united in marriage to Cora Alice Haas June 30, 1886. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Marie Agalla, wife of Earl E. Reichelderfer, Grace Lucille, wife of Robert G. McCoy, and Florence Marvane, wife of Leon Van Vleet. Three grandchildren: Earl E. Reichelderfer Jr., Richard Reichelderfer and Glen G. McCoy. Two brothers, Eli and John Hampshire.

He was for many years a member of the Evangelical church from which he was transferred by letter to the Presbyterian church. He had been ill for the past year and passed away Nov. 5th at 6 p. m. The funeral was held at his home in Washington-twp Thursday at 2 p. m., and his remains were interred at Forest cemetery.

The service was conducted by Rev. H. V. Summers of Akron, O., and Rev. E. S. Toensmeier. Relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hampshire, John Hampshire, Archie Hampshire, Mr. and Mrs. John Haas and son, Howard all from Mt. Vernon, O. Among friends from out of town were Mrs. Michael Durkin, Mrs. Katie Burk, from Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Alsbaugh from Amanda.

MISS UNDERWOOD IS MELL'S PRIDE, JOY

Congressman Mell G. Underwood, whose visit to Circleville and Pickaway-co was scheduled for Friday, was detained at his home in New Lexington, O., by far more important business. This was the arrival in the early morning of a baby daughter for whom a name has not as yet been decided.

Mr. and Mrs. Underwood have two sons, and the advent of the daughter was not a thing to be regarded lightly. So the already doting father had to cancel his Pickaway-co engagement.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT electric lights are no longer a novelty in business but a necessity, and when properly used are a great aid in selling. Stores that have well lighted windows attract much attention from passersby.

If merchandise is well displayed, the lights well arranged and the stocks well advertised in the newspapers, business is sure to be better day by day.

Everybody likes to look at well lighted, well trimmed windows; they create a desire to possess—and a desire to possess means more sales.

All stores should be attractively lighted. Each store window should be lighted differently from that of its neighbors. The electric light companies and electrical supply dealers, if called upon, can help in arranging lights.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS THE GREATEST PULLING POWER KNOWN TO BRING CUSTOMERS TO A STORE, BUT IT TAKES WELL LIGHTED, ATTRACTIVELY DISPLAYED STOCKS TO HELP COMPLETE THE SALES.

WINDOW SHOPPERS AND NEWSPAPER READERS ARE THE CUSTOMERS OF TODAY AND TOMORROW.

MISS UNDERWOOD IS MELL'S PRIDE, JOY

Congressman Mell G. Underwood, whose visit to Circleville and Pickaway-co was scheduled for Friday, was detained at his home in New Lexington, O., by far more important business. This was the arrival in the early morning of a baby daughter for whom a name has not as yet been decided.

Mr. and Mrs. Underwood have two sons, and the advent of the daughter was not a thing to be regarded lightly. So the already doting father had to cancel his Pickaway-co engagement.

THAT electric lights are no longer a novelty in business but a necessity, and when properly used are a great aid in selling. Stores that have well lighted windows attract much attention from passersby.

If merchandise is well displayed, the lights well arranged and the stocks well advertised in the newspapers, business is sure to be better day by day.

Everybody likes to look at well lighted, well trimmed windows; they create a desire to possess—and a desire to possess means more sales.

All stores should be attractively lighted. Each store window should be lighted differently from that of its neighbors. The electric light companies and electrical supply dealers, if called upon, can help in arranging lights.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS THE GREATEST PULLING POWER KNOWN TO BRING CUSTOMERS TO A STORE, BUT IT TAKES WELL LIGHTED, ATTRACTIVELY DISPLAYED STOCKS TO HELP COMPLETE THE SALES.

WINDOW SHOPPERS AND NEWSPAPER READERS ARE THE CUSTOMERS OF TODAY AND TOMORROW.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Miss Allison Delaplaine, Editor, Phone 581

TWO PARTIES OF SOCIAL IMPORTANCE

Two of the largest and most brilliant recent social events were the 12 o'clock luncheon and dinner bridge at 6 o'clock Thursday at which Mrs. Franklin Kibler and Mrs. Earl Kibler were the gracious hostesses at their home on E. Main-st. At these two affairs 112 guests were entertained, with the presence of a number of out-of-town guests augmenting the pleasure of the occasions.

Autumn shades predominated in the decorative scheme which included large yellow and white chrysanthemums and butterscotch. In the center of each table was a crystal vase for a single flower, which contained a deep yellow calendula. The bud vases were tied with small bows of yellow and green tulle. The ice and the mints included in the dessert course were also in the shades of white, yellow and green.

In the receiving line with the two hostesses was Mrs. George Kibler, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Franklin Kibler, from Toledo Mrs. J. P. Duffy of Columbus, was also a house guest at the Kibler home for the two parties.

At noon, after the players had completed five rounds of very interesting bridge, prizes for high scores were presented to Mrs. L. B. Davidson and Mrs. R. F. Lilly. In the evening when there were 14 tables of bridge in progress, after the fifth game, prizes for the two highest scores were won by Miss Gladys Howard and Mrs. Orson King. Guest prizes for the house guests were received by Mrs. J. P. Duffy and Mrs. George Kibler.

Assisting the hostesses were Mrs. Albert Crist, Mrs. Tom Renick, and Miss Helen Schear. The guests present from out of the city were: Mrs. Charles Wendt, Mrs. J. P. Mariotti, Mrs. Johanna Bayer and Mrs. J. P. Duffy of Columbus; Mrs. W. A. Wallace and Mrs. John Riley of Chillicothe; Mrs. Kelly Camp of Bainbridge; Mrs. Carson Dreisbach of Kings-ton; and Mrs. James Cheek of Oklahoma City, Okla.

CHICKEN SUPPER IN ASHVILLE

Saturday evening, Nov. 10th, the ladies of the Methodist church of Ashville, will serve a chicken pie supper. A number of Circleville persons will attend.

WOMEN'S CLUBS TO MEET IN LANCASTER

The Monday club of Circleville has received an official notice of the Annual Conference of the Southeast District of Women's clubs, to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 20 and 21, 1928. Mrs. William N. Harder, of Marion, O., is president of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, and will speak on "The Value of Federation."

Delegates chosen from Circleville at the meeting Monday night were Mrs. E. F. Anderson and Mrs. Clark Will with Mrs. Charles Gerhardt and Mrs. Harry Heffner as alternates. All sessions will be held in St. Peter's Lutheran church, corner of Broad and Mulberry-sts. Registration committee will be at the church where upon arrival delegates are requested to register and receive assignments to their hostesses who will graciously invite them to their homes for the night.

DINNER PARTY IN LAURELVILLE

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Hiram McDowell and son, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Vorhees and son, Mr. Bill Garret of Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Congrove, of Adelphi, Mr. and Mrs. James Seymour and two children of Whisler, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Karr, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Downs and the Poling family.

TO ATTEND BANQUET OF O. S. U. ALUMNI

Attorney and Mrs. Tom Renick of Circleville will go to Columbus Saturday morning where they will attend the Ohio State Alumni banquet at the Faculty club on the campus. Those present at this banquet will attend the Ohio State Iowa football game at the stadium.

TO ENTERTAIN BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. I. N. Abernethy will act as hostess Friday night to the members of her bridge club at her home on N. Court-st.

LADIES' SOCIETY HAS MEETING

Mrs. H. M. Crites presided Wednesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Ladies' society of the Trinity Lutheran church. She is the vice president of that organization and took the place of the president, who was absent. She opened the meeting at 2 o'clock with a hymn, "Come Ye Faithful People," which was followed by the reading of the 100th psalm and the regular monthly missionary program. The missionary subject was "Your Child and His Recreation," and was in charge of Mrs. Charles Beck. Mrs. Denny Pickens read a paper "Putting the 'T' into Society."

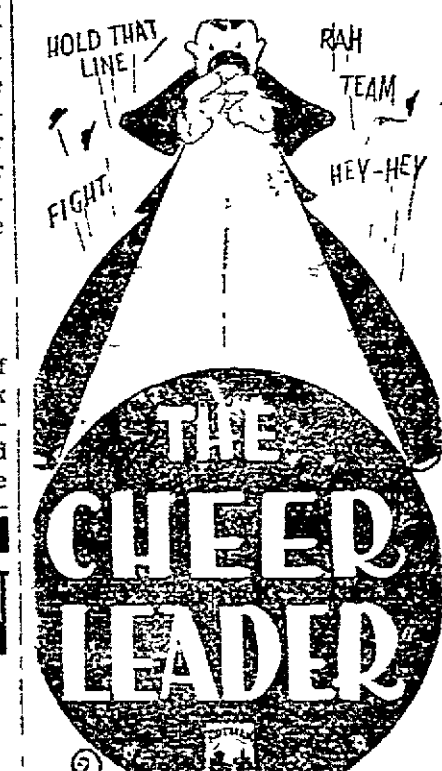

The hymn, "Our Country's Voice Pleading" preceded the presentation of Thankoffering Boxes, as scripture verses or poems were repeated in answer to the roll call. Mrs. Harry Groce gave her report on the recent Missionary conference held at Toledo, O. The next conference will be held at Baltimore, Md., and the local society voted to send a delegation to that session.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer and a social hour followed. Mrs. W. F. Heffner was the chairman in charge of this meeting.

MISS RUGGLES WINS FIRST PRIZE

Miss Miriam Ruggles of Circleville carried off the honors at bridge Wednesday night at a dinner party at the Warner House in Chillicothe. The dinner was given by Miss Mary Harnount for Miss Marjorie Brown and Mr. Walter Kampf whose marriage will be a brilliant event of Saturday, Nov. 10.

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock to 25 guests seated at one large table which was cleverly decorated with candles, white chrysanthemums and fern which represented a miniature garden.

ENTERTAINS AT COUNTRY HOME

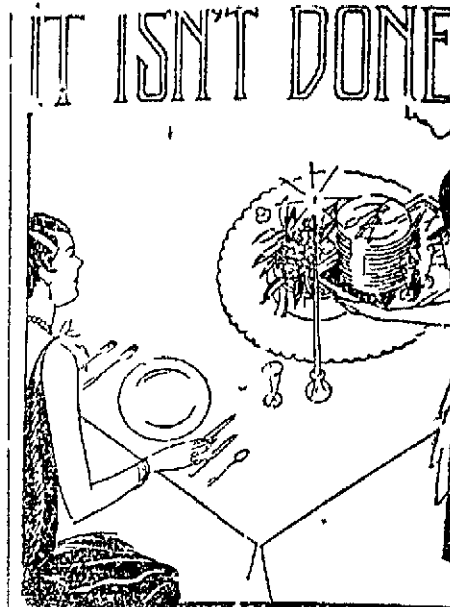

Miss Blanche Valentine charmingly entertained two tables of bridge Thursday night at her home in Pickaway-town. After a pleasant evening spent at cards the guests were served delicious refreshments by the hostess. The bridge trophies were presented to Miss Catherine English and Miss Jennie Grigsby.

CHOIR HAS PARTY THURSDAY NIGHT

The choir of St. Philip's Episcopal church had a party Thursday night at the parish house for the pleasure of their friends and the new members. Thirty guests responded to the invitations which were for 7:30 o'clock.

The evening proved all too short for the novel entertainment that had been planned, by Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, who conducted a number of contests and novel diversions for the guests. When the entertainments came to an end, delicious refreshments were served by the committee in charge. This was composed of Mrs. Roland Heiskell, chairman, who was assisted by Mrs. George Bentley, Miss Josephine Bartley and Mrs. Ralph Curtin.

Mrs. Channing Vlerehome and daughter, Ann, were Columbus visitors Friday.

THE setting of the table illustrated above is faultless. The sterling pieces and other items of the setting are in good taste and properly arranged. But there is much to be desired in the service. The hostess has instructed her maid badly for she has "stacked" the dishes as she cleared the table. Remember that your servant should remove the plate of each guest separately returning it to the pantry before removing that of another guest.

Justice of the Peace J. C. Hoover, of Ashville, was a business visitor in Circleville Thursday.

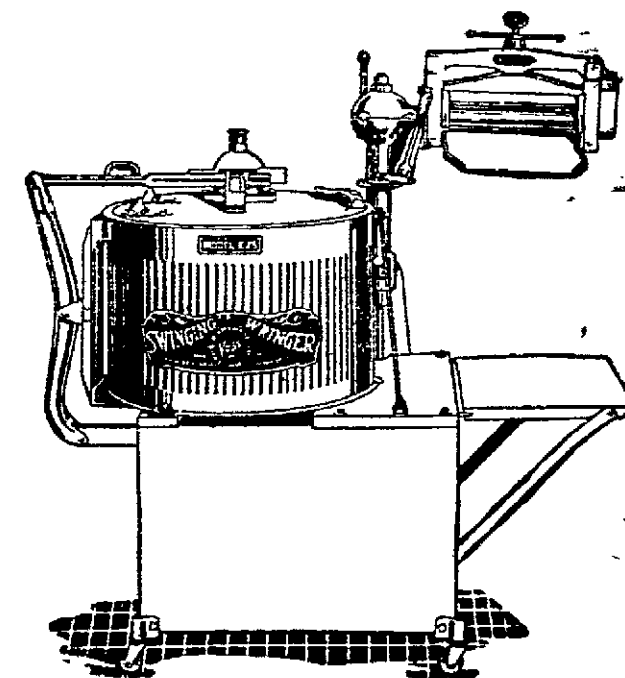

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral of Mrs. E. W. Hedges at noon Friday were Clarence Ward, of Charleston, W. Va., George Blacker, of Cincinnati and John Blacker, of Chillicothe.

The VOSS way is always your way. The satisfaction of having everything just so is doubled when you realize that it is so easy with the VOSS Washer.

10 VOSS FEATURES

- 1.—Easier on clothes: Floto-plane Agitator works at "point of suspension"—it cleans with a light touch.
- 2.—Washes cleaner! New water action causes suds to swirl and froth through the clothes.
- 3.—Washes faster! Does not pack or "wad" the clothes—ample space for sudsy water to reach every fibre.
- 4.—Small space—base 22 1-2 x 25 1-2 in.
- 5.—Trouble proof; simplest mechanism on any washer.
- 6.—Safety! Mechanism enclosed.
- 7.—4 position wringer: Locks to position; positive, safety release.
- 8.—Voss Floto-plane Agitator: exclusive feature, cannot rust, wear out, or need replacement.
- 9.—Guaranteed by the oldest washing machine manufacturers—makers of first washer.
- 10.—Saving: Voss methods save you $35 to $85.
